Recommends Extension of Selective Service Ages

Roosevelt Vetoes Anti-Strike Bill

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(BUP)—President Roosevelt today vetoed the anti-strike bill, but the U.S. senate immediately voted to make the bill law despite his protests. If the house also votes by a two-third majority to override the veto, the measure becomes law despite Mr. Roosevelt's disapproval. The senate vote was 56 in favor of overriding the veto and 25 in favor of sustaining the president's objections.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt vetoed today the anti-strike bill.

The president said in a message to the senate that the measure had an entirely praiseworthy purpose but that he was convinced it would in some cases produce strikes "in vital war plants which otherwise would not occur."

Declaring he intended to use the powers of government to prevent the interruption of war production by strikes, Mr. Roosevelt formally recommended amendment of the selective service act so that persons between 45 and 65 years may be inducted into non-combatant military service.

DIRECT APPROACH

"This will enable us," he said, "to induct into military service all persons who engaged in strikes, stoppages, or other interruptions of work in plants in the possession of the United States.

"This direct approach is necessary to ensure the continuity of

Powerful Attacks

Night, Day Raids Batter Germany

LONDON, June 15.—(BUP)—American heavy bombers battled through dirty weather and intense fighter opposition today to blast targets in northwest Germany and carry through another day a record-shattering offensive at Nazi Europe from all sides. Many German fighters were shot down. Eighteen bombers of the task force which raided objectives in northwest Germany, not immediately identified, were missing.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—The R.A.F. carried its offensive against the Ruhr to a new peak last night by returning to the bomb-battered city of Wuppertal in great strength and making a concentrated attack on important chemical and textile manufacturing plants there.

Canadian bombers also took part in the massive raid, it was learned here today, just as they did May 29 when 1,500 tons or more of bombs were laid on the sprawling industrial area which occupies both side of the Wupper river.

Thirty-three bombers, eight of them Canadians, failed to return from the night's operations, which included assaults on other targets in the Ruhr and laying mines in enemy waters.

R.C.A.F. planes took part in these raids as well, scouting across the channel to attack railways and other targets in northern France.

The attack was concentrated on the industrial area of Elberfeld, the western section of Wuppertal, the air ministry said.

"The attack was nearly as heavy as that recently made on Bermen, the eastern half of Wuppertal, and

R. M. English Is Appointed As U.S. Consul

Official of the United States department of state, Washington, Robert McCalla English has been appointed United States consular representative in this city, according to an announcement Friday by the U.S. government. He will succeed John S. Randolph, United States consul-general, who is retiring from the service June 30. It is expected that Mr. English will arrive here July 5.

Mr. English was born at Cambridge, Mass., and studied at the Nobel and Greenough schools. He later studied at the University of Dijon (diploma 1925) and at Harvard University, where he received his A.B. degree in 1926. He is a second lieutenant in the Officers Reserve Corps.

Mr. English's first appointment in the foreign service of the United States was on June 9, 1927, at Algiers, where he was promoted to be vice consul on Jan. 11, 1928. He was appointed after examination to the career service while still at Algiers on Jan. 29, 1929. On May 25, 1929 he received a temporary appointment at Gibraltar, going on from Gibraltar to Constantinople, Istanbul, on July 1, 1929.

On Dec. 16, 1930, he was appointed a secretary in the diplomatic service, and on Feb. 4, 1931, he was appointed vice consul and third secretary of the legation at Bangkok.

TO BUDAPEST

On Jan. 26, 1932, he was appointed third secretary of the legation at Budapest, Hungary. On March 19, 1935, he was transferred to Paris as third secretary. On Dec. 18, 1936, he was assigned to Ottawa as vice-consul and third secretary of the legation. On June 17, 1937, he was appointed American consul at Ottawa, in addition to his duties as third secretary to the legation. On June 3, 1940, he became second secretary to the legation at Ottawa in addition to his duties as consul there. On June 28, 1940, he went to Wellington, New Zealand, as American consul.

Mr. English's appointment to Edmonton has come to him while on duty in the department of state, Washington.

Mr. English is married and has children. He expects to arrive in Edmonton early in July, and to be followed later in the summer by his wife and children.

Russian Minister Going to Moscow

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, June 25.—In the big Red air force transport plane that brought a Soviet purchasing mission to Ottawa last week, Hon. Feodor Gusev, Russian minister to Canada, left for Moscow today on a mission to report to Marshal Stalin and other Russian leaders. Pilot of the plane is Capt. Feodor Panomarenko, Soviet air ace and winner of medals for valor at Leningrad and Sebastopol.

Though Gusev's visit to Moscow is described as a routine mission, several significant aspects of the journey are seen. This is the first round trip air journey between Moscow and Ottawa, and it may foreshadow one of the great air routes of the future. Modern travel has brought Canada and Russia closely together. This will be the first direct report on Canada taken to Moscow by the Russian minister.

Eventful Day

Hudson's Bay Co. Boat Reaches Northern Point

Most people may associate the north with air travel or whizzing along over the Alaska Military Highway in a car, but there are many places up there where the boat's the thing and it was an eventful day at Fort Resolution and Rocher River on Great Slave Lake when the Hudson's Bay Company transport department vessel "M. V. Prophyry" arrived on the first trip of the season.

Early spring supplies and general merchandise were brought in by the boat which left for the north from Fort Smith N.W.T. and went down the Slave River to the northern points of Fort Resolution and Rocher River.

Upon the "M. V. Porphyry's" return to Fort Smith she was loaded with freight for Aklavik and points along the Lower MacKenzie. She is now on the way across Great Slave Lake. Officials expect good luck to have the first boat of the season arrive before long as Norman Wells and Aklavik.

Interest is centred particularly in the former point as it is there that officials confidently predict that the "greatest oil field in the world" may be developed.

Work on the oil production is well under way at Fort Norman and the opening of the movement of vessels to the north has been eagerly awaited.

Estimate 4 to 5 Million Persons Moved From Ruhr

Children Have Gala Afternoon Enjoying Many Carnival Attractions

—Photos by Alfred Blyth Studios.

Two hundred and fifty children from six Edmonton orphanages had the time of their lives Thursday afternoon, when, as guests of The Edmonton Bulletin, they spent two and a half hours riding the amusement devices of Crescent Shows, 101 Street and Kingsway. Every ride in the carnival-ground was loaded from 4 until 6:30 p.m., as the carefree youngsters rode and re-rode, and in between times filled up on hot dogs and "pop", donated by John Michaels of Mike's News Stand and Tommy Fisk, of the Empress Pipe Shop. In the picture, at top left, are five children from McConnell Institute, on the "tilt-a-whirl": Florence Dansereau (left), Mariette Dansereau, Rita Boorman, Marie Lensing, and Betty Bittmann. In the top right hand corner, Pauline Dansereau, 8, is having a "go" at pink candy floss. Bottom left, Frank Ramsay, from the Kiwanis Home, is having a high old time on the merry-go-round, and his expression denotes more thanks than a thousand words. In bottom centre, one of the Sisters from McConnell Institute takes three tiny tots on the "Silver Streak". The children are left, Beth Crossland, 4; front, Anna Coutier, 3, and Ruth Crossland, 5. At bottom right is Sister Leonard, from Our Lady of the Atonement Home, who was on hand to watch some of her charges enjoying themselves.

City's Orphan Children Spend Merry Afternoon On Carnival Show Rides

The merry-go-round went 'round, Thursday afternoon, for 250 wildly-delighted children, when they visited Crescent Shows, Kingsway and 101 street, as guests of The Edmonton Bulletin. The merry-go-round started at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 6:30, when the visit was over, it was a groaning merry-go-round, aching from overwork, that heard the children chorus "MORE!"

The 250 kiddies were orphans, cared for by six city institutions —the City Shelter, 11290 75 street; the Kiwanis Home, 103 avenue and 120 street; the O'Connell Institute, Forest Heights; the Alberta Protestant Home, 10621 92 street; St. Mary's Home, 6730 128 avenue, and Our Lady of the Atonement Home, 11035 92 street.

Henry Meyerhoff, owner and manager of Crescent Shows, operating at Kingsway and 101 street, welcomed the children to his amusement devices.

SKY THE LIMIT

"Let them ride as long as they like," Mr. Meyerhoff instructed his staff. "If they want more than one go at the rides, let them have it—the sky's the limit today!"

"And," he added, "if they still want more, tell them to come back when we return to Edmonton between the 19th and 24th of July. We'll be glad to see them any time."

The children themselves welcomed Mr. Meyerhoff's layout as you would expect—shrill yelps of glee, as they hopped off the back of huge trucks which brought them to the grounds.

"Gee, lookit that big thing! I'm goin' on that big thing first!"

"Oh, No! No! No!!! Let's go on

Navy Names Six Acting Captains

OTTAWA, June 25.—(CP)—Six naval officers with records of long service in the Royal Canadian Navy and Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve to their credit receive rank of acting captain in a list of promotions announced today by naval headquarters.

The list contains the names of 44 officers, five attached to the R.C.N., the headquarters announcement said the higher ranks accorded the officers would be acting ones, to be held by those concerned while in their present appointments. The promotions are effective as of June 15.

Of the six officers given rank of acting captain, four are members of the R.C.N. and two members of the R.C.N.V.R. The R.C.N. officers promoted are: Cmdrs. Arthur Roddy Pressey, of Ottawa and Duncan, B.C.; Philip Barry German, of Gaspe, Que., and Ottawa; James McCulloch, of Esquimalt, B.C., and Vancouver, and Alured Philip Musgrave, of St. Hyacinthe, Que., and Victoria.

The R.C.N.V.R. officers promoted to acting captain are Cmdrs. Conan Rudyard Frayer, of Halifax and Winnipeg, and James Gilmour Mackinley, of Washington, D.C.

No Anti-American Elements Behind Detroit Race Riots

DETROIT, June 25. — (BUP) — Gov. Harry F. Kelly's four-man fact-finding committee reported today it had found no evidence that Monday's bloody race rioting was organized and inspired by subversive elements, and that therefore no grand jury investigation will be held.

Winnipeg Dealers Ask Labor Draft To Deliver Coal

WINNIPEG, June 25. — (CP) — Labor Minister Mitchell has been asked by the coal dealers of Winnipeg to draft men on a compulsory basis to handle deliveries here.

The dealers' association, the Winnipeg Coal Exchange, has wired Mr. Mitchell saying:

"Dealers in Greater Winnipeg are reduced to skeleton staffs and utterly unable to make deliveries to thousands of consumers who have ordered fuel."

Raid Salonika

Allied Bombers Turn Attention To Greek Port

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, June 25.—(AP)—The ever-strengthening Allied air arm stretched out in a new and significant direction over the Mediterranean yesterday to strike a heafy blow at the historic Greek port of Salonika, it was disclosed today.

A middle east air communique said heavy bombers of the 9th United States Air Force, operating from bases somewhere at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, had attacked the Sedes airdrome at Salonika scoring hits on three hangars and leaving them in flames.

FIRST REPORTED RAID

(This was the first reported bombing of Salonika by Allied planes based in the middle east. Salonika, a city with a normal peacetime population of about 236,000, is situated on the eastern coast of Greece approximately 700 miles northwest of Alexandria. It is one of the principal ports on the Aegean and in 1915, during the First World War, was used as a landing place for British and French troops sent to oppose the German advance.)

While the American four-engined aircraft were carrying out this pioneering attack, the first reported bombing of that possible invasion pointed by Allied planes based in the Middle East, British and American bombers from Northwest Africa were giving Sardinian and Sicilian targets another going-over.

Edmonton Youth Jailed at Coast For Draft Evasion

VANCOUVER, June 25.—(CP)—R. V. Ketter, 20, Edmonton, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment by Police Magistrate MacKenzie Matheson yesterday on a charge of failing to report for military duty after he had received a call requiring him to do so. At the end of his sentence, he will be conveyed under guard to a military camp.

Ketter told Magistrate Matheson that he was a "minister of the gospel." He said he belonged to no group but was appointed by "Jehovah himself."

King George Back Home From Tour of War Zone

By JAMES McGLINCY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

LONDON, June 25. — King George VI landed in Britain today after a precedent-smashing 5,800-mile aerial visit to North Africa for an inspection of Allied land, sea and air forces that soon may be thrown into an all-out assault on southern Europe.

His face bronzed from the African sun, the King stepped from his plane at an airport "somewhere in England" 10 minutes before Prime Minister Churchill sped up in automobile to greet him, but the prime minister caught up with the monarch at a Royal Air Force station soon afterward.

The two highest leaders of the British Empire conferred for a half hour over tea and sandwiches at the R.A.F. station and then motored to London.

The King's two-week tour of North Africa marked the first time that any British monarch ever made such an extensive air inspection trip, either in peace or war; the first time that a British king ever has visited conquered territory so soon after battle in order to exhort his men on to new victories, and the first time a king ever has flown during war-time.

Has 67 Seats

De Valera Fails Gain Majority In Eire House

By JOSEPH DENNIGAN

DUBLIN, June 25—(CP)—Complete returns from Eire's first wartime election today showed that Prime Minister De Valera's Fianna Fail party had obtained only 67 seats, leaving him without a workign majority in a parliament of 138 seats.

Under those conditions De Valera's only chance of prolonging his 10-year rule in Eire seemed to hinge on the possibility that he could reach an agreement with one or more of the lesser parties.

STALEMATE LIKELY

Otherwise, according to spokesmen for the two major parties, the polling would result in a stalemate, with neither group having sufficient strength to form a stable government.

In view of De Valera's stand

Ontario Cabinet May Set Election Date on Tuesday

TORONTO, June 25.—(CP)—The Ontario cabinet council will meet Tuesday, it was learned yesterday and political sources said they expected Premier Nixon would announce the date for the forthcoming provincial election. Speculation in political circles is that the election date will be announced either as Wednesday, July 28, or Wednesday, Aug. 4.

Against Invasion

10 Nazi Army Divisions Guard Brenner Pass

LONDON, June 25.—(CP)—Ten German army divisions comprising roughly 150,000 men are being moved into northern Italy to guard the mountain approaches to Brenner Pass, gateway to Germany, against any Allied invasion from the south, it was asserted here today by an unofficial source with close continental connections.

The informant said the move suggested that the Nazis were distrustful of the resistance their Italian allies would put up against such an invasion and were preparing their own defence line at the portals of Germany herself.

He said half of the 10 divisions already were fanning out into their new positions and that the remainder were on the way to form a fluid reserve force which could be shifted quickly toward the

Senate Votes To Over-Ride His Decision

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(BUP)—President Roosevelt today vetoed the anti-strike bill, but the U.S. senate immediately voted to make the bill law despite his protests. Many Canucks Participate in Shuttle Raids

By ALLAN NICKLESON

LONDON, June 25.—(CP)—Scores of Canadians who helped the R.A.F. write a new chapter in the ever-increasing aerial pounding of the Axis stepped from their black Lancasters only briefly before dawn yesterday and told of a shuttle operation which constituted one of the most daring bombing expeditions of the war.

They were among the history-making crews who soared from their bases in Britain last Sunday, bombed Friedrichshafen in southern Germany and flew on to airdromes in North Africa.

The return trip started Wednesday night and the fliers, having bombed up in North Africa, blasted the Italian naval base of Spezia on the homeward flight. They suffered no loss.

ELATED BY FEAT

Elated over the feat, the men piled into breakfast with such comments as those of FO. Steve Boczar of Saskatoon who said: "It was a grand trip. There were big fires from oil dumps in Spezia and another big fire in Friedrichshafen.

"We flew in formation to the German target and were able to read our maps all the way, the moonlight was so bright. The defence was nothing to speak of."

There were four other Canadians in Boczar's crew—Sergeant Russ Webb of Glen Avon, Sask., and Fort Francis, Ont., and George Borwell of Yellow Grass, Sask., Flt. Sgt. Red Burgar of Trynor, Sask., and FO. Johnny Carriere of Cochrane, Onl.

Webb had just completed his tour of operations, but he asked permission to make the shuttle trip in order not to break up the crew, some members of which had not completed their tours.

Borwell said Spezia sent up a smoke screen when the docks and shipping were bombed.

"It was difficult to see the results but I'm quite certain there was a big fire in an oil dump," he said, adding: "Thick black smoke rose 10,000 feet."

The planes passed over Algeria at dawn and landed in North Africa without incident.

PO. F. Allcroft, a Vancouver pilot, said: "I sure was glad to be on such a swell show."

Deer Is Seen At Breakfast By City Woman

With all the signs of Edmonton becoming a great metropolis of the future, a woman came along today with a reminder that, while the city is rapidly growing and becoming more cosmopolitan, it still is figuratively only a stone's throw from some of the world's greatest hunting grounds.

Mrs. V. Wyatt, living at 12047 103 street, phoned The Bulletin early this morning to enquire if a deer was missing from the city's zoo at Borden Park, as there was one near her house at that moment unconcernedly nibbling breakfast. However, the zoo's herd was reported intact, so Mrs. Wyatt's deer is distinctly of the "wild" variety.

against a coalition government, political observers said that the four opposition groups might form a government, but it was expected that this would be only temporary because they are not bound by any strong common ties.

Such a temporary coalition might be dissolved and a new election called, possibly as early as September, they said.

The new Dail probably will meet July 7.

LOSES 10 SEATS

The complete returns from Tuesday's election showed that De Valera's party had dropped 10 seats in the polling, the first since 1938. The party standings were:

Fianna Fail	67
Fine Gael	32
Labor	17
Farmers	9
Independents	13

Principal gainers in membership this election were the farmers and labor.

William Cosgrave, leader of the Fine Gael, or United Ireland party, campaigned for a coalition government of all parties. De Valera opposed this proposal and said he would not join such a government.

Air Force Is Seeking New Group Recruits

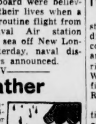

Opportunities for High school students, both boys and girls, to go directly from their studies to courses of training in the R.C.A.F., are now available in a great variety of trades, Squadron Leader W. Paul Graham, Commanding Officer of No. 3 Recruiting Centre, R.C.A.F., announced Friday.

Women can replace men for active service by entering as clerks, operators, clerks, chefs or standard tradeswomen. This latter category includes such interesting vocations as drivers, fabric workers, instrument makers, meteorological assistants, telephone operators and wireless operators. Training is given free by the air force and pay and subsistence is provided during the training period.

Men are needed now for aircrew duties. Squadron Leader Graham announced that increased air activity over Europe will result in more and more men being trained to fly as pilots, navigators, air bombers, air gunners or wireless operators. It is no longer necessary for aircrew to serve a six months' tour of duty before commencing their flying training and there is no delay on enlistment. Suitable applicants for aircrew can be enlisted immediately.

For those men who are unable to fly, there are many openings in ground trades in the air force. Present needs are for wireless electrical mechanics, wireless operators, aerographer mechanics, air frame mechanics, standard general duties and construction hands. The age limits in the R.C.A.F. are 17½ to 30 years. Prospective applicants are requested to visit the air force recruiting centre in the Provincial building. Those who live out of town should write for free transportation to the R.C.A.F. recruiting centre, Edmonton.

that other one that goes up and around!"

It was strange, a bit, seeing three or four dark-habited Sisters guiding their young wards around, putting them on the merry-go-round and the ferris wheel, and waiting to take them off again. Or shepherding a dozen squealing children, the whole 12 munching steaming hot dogs, and gazing pop-eyed at steel contraptions that wheeled through the air, up and down, up and down, and brought its passengers grinning to earth again.

"It's the first time they've ever seen a carnival," one of the Sisters said. "And are they enjoying it!"

They were. The whole 230 of them.

The Ferris Wheel, the Silver Streak, the "Spitfire", with its weaving airplanes, the Tilt-a-Whirl, which does exactly that, were thronged with young masses of humanity that wanted more . . . more . . . more.

To top the afternoon's fun, John Micelaris, of Miles Novelty Stand and Tommy Fisk, Empress Pipe Shop, stood the whole group in hot dogs, candy floss, and "pop".

OFFICIALS PRESENT

On hand to see the children enjoying themselves were Evelyn Wood and Donna Buttner, of the American Red Cross; Miss Stead and Margaret Massie, Edmonton probation officers; Lew Hough, chief expediter, Oman Smith Company; Tommy Hays of The Barn, Jim Allison, sales promotion manager of The Bulletin, and C. B. Hill, deputy superintendent of child welfare, Alberta government.

Lew, Tommy and Jim acted as guides to The Bulletin's special guests, each taking parties of about 75 lusty youngsters, and leading them to the signpin rides Manager Meyerhoff had thrown open for the afternoon.

Groups of Sisters were seen too, waving at some children they brought to the party, the children high in the sky on the ferris wheel. "Sister! Sister!" the Sisters shouted. "Look at us! 'Way up here!"

One or two of the Sisters went on the rides with the tiniest tots —some only three and a half years old—and there were smiles under dark hoods, and wide eyes, for those riding with the tots were enjoying the novelty of the occasion too.

Of all the Crescent's rides, it was the merry-go-round that was the central attraction to the children. Some spent their entire afternoon, shrieking with delight and waving to awe-struck friends who had never seen such a machine in their lives before.

"Yippee, Benny—lookit the black horse! Ain't he got a swell face? Yippee!"

LEAVE RELUCTANTLY

When 6:30 came at last, and the ferris wheel coasted to a stop, the flying airplanes stood still, and the merry-go-round slowed to a final halt, it was a long-faced crowd of youngsters that readied themselves for the trip home.

Some were still eating their pink puffy candy-floss; others were strangling hoarded hot dogs; and still more were hugging stuffed, for a year's excitement had been crowded into one bustling, noisy, mechanical afternoon.

They had cheered when they came, in buses, trucks; they cheered their way through the afternoon; and they cheered as they left in the huge trucks.

The success of the afternoon's fun for the children was expressed best by a seven-year lass, who, tired enough to doze off any minute in a Sister's arms, asked: "Sister, will the rides come back soon?"

The Edmonton Bulletin takes this opportunity of thanking all those who supplied transportation facilities for the children, and those who co-operated in other ways to make this outing for the orphan children such a success. It will be an afternoon long remembered by some of those who at times are lost sight of, in the swirling tempo of a world at war.

Report Asked on North Development

LONDON, June 25.—(CP)—Hon. R. B. Hanson (Prog. Con., York-Sunbury), asked yesterday in the house of commons that Prime Minister Mackenzie King give detailed information on arrangements between Canada and the United States in respect to wartime developments in the North West Territories and Yukon.

Mr. King said he was glad to receive the inquiry.

Asking for a statement before the end of the session, Mr. Hanson said Mr. King should table agreements between the countries as to the United States interest in and use of the Alaska Highway.

There should be a similar statement of the ownership of an oil pipeline from Fort Norman, N.W.T., to Whitehorse, Y.T., with information on the money spent in its development and in oil refinery construction.

Mr. Hanson said it should be explained whether the land through which the pipeline ran would be alienated to the United States.

Jittery Nazis Call Classes Of 1894-1896

Riviera or into the Balkans in case of urgent need.

Without confirmation from any Allied source, a German radio commentator claimed in a broadcast recorded by Reuters News Agency that the British 8th Army had been sent from North Africa to Syria to spearhead an Allied attack.

LONDON, June 25.—Axis invasion defences were stepped up drastically again today when reports from jittery Europe said that Germany had called up the military classes of 1894 to 1896 and Italy had seized 11,150 persons in a one-week campaign against suspected fifth columnists.

The Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau's correspondent at Berlin said that the Germans had ordered the two military classes including men from the ages of 47 to 49 to report to their local police stations, thus scraping the bottom of the barrel of Nazi manpower to meet threats of Allied invasion and greatly increased aerial bombardment.

German losses on the fighting fronts have been estimated at more than 5,000,000 men, but in addition the Nazis recently have reported heavy casualties as a result of the Allied aerial offensive against Western Germany—where even last year some 2,500,000 men were tied up in the air raid defence services. Many more have been required to meet the mounting scale of Allied air attacks this year.

CAUSE BIGGEST LOSSES

The Swiss newspaper Tribune at Geneva, for instance, said in a dispatch from Berlin today that the casualties and material damage in western and northwestern Germany as a result of the recent Allied air attacks were far exceeding losses on the various fighting fronts.

A normal military class in Germany might total about 560,000 men, but the classes of 1894 to 1896 obviously would be much smaller. They presumably would be used for rear line work, including air raid precautions, in order to release younger soldiers to man the European defences against invasion.

The prospect of invasion was still being hammered home to the German people and even Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, writing in Das Reich, said that it was not doubted that the Allies could muster sufficient shipping and landing craft to get a start somewhere on the European coast.

TOTAL MOBILIZATION

Both Germany and Italy have been attempting to achieve total mobilization as the hour of invasion approaches. The Fascists having called up women between the ages of 18 and 24 for farm work and similar duties.

The Italians, however, also have been engaged in desperate efforts to suppress pro-Allied sentiment, which might facilitate an invasion and many have been arrested by the secret police.

The chief of the police organization, the Ovra, was understood to have informed Mussolini that the arrests were "absolutely necessary" in view of the grave threat of Allied landings. He asked that the Ovra be permitted greater severity in dealing with possible dissident elements.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

The Italian efforts to bolster shaky morale on the home front were accompanied by these developments pointing toward impending action:

1. The BBC said two more German divisions have arrived in Italy to assist in defending its coasts.

2. Radio Berlin reported that the largest British naval concentration in recent months, including six battleships, two aircraft carriers, 20 smaller warships and about 70 merchant ships, either had passed through Gibraltar strait or had anchored in Gibraltar harbor in the last few days. Two of the battleships, the 35,000-ton King George V and the Howe, were said to have sailed into the Mediterranean early Wednesday with an escort of destroyers and torpedo boats.

3. A German military mission is inspecting Axis defences in Bulgaria and will go from there to Thrace to inspect Greek coastal defences. Italian occupation forces were reported building new forts near Salonika. Information reaching Madrid from Greece said considerable apprehension was apparent in Axis circles over possible Allied operations in the eastern Mediterranean.

4. A BBC broadcast said a complete Greek army of about 30,000 men is among the large Allied forces concentrated in Syria for an assault on southern Europe.

5. The BBC urged 800,000 French railwaymen to destroy their locomotives and disorganize the entire French railroad system at the zero hour for an Allied invasion.

6. The military correspondent of the German Trans-Ocean agency said that Allied preparations for an attack in the Mediterranean have "reached the culminating point."

Seeks Evasion Of Army Service

Slipping off a train onto which he had been placed a short while before, Paul Chobotuck, ordered Tuesday to report to Calgary for compulsory military training, by Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., disappeared, it was learned Friday afternoon. Instructions for his arrest have been issued, J. R. McIsaac, divisional registrar, department of national war services, stated.

Chobotuck, who appeared in court on Tuesday last, along with three other youths charged with causing a disturbance, told Magistrate Millar that he wanted to apply for postponement as he was needed in the seeding house in which he had been employed.

He was told that he had been served with his call-up notice and would be required to report to Calgary immediately. A police escort was ordered to see that some time after leaving the city, he reportedly left it. Army training headquarters at Calgary reported that he had failed to show up.

Youths at School Are Not Affected By Labor Decree

OTTAWA, June 25—(CP)—Extension of compulsory transfer regulations to youths 16, 17 and 18 years old will not in any way interfere with their education, labor department officials said yesterday.

Under the new order, announced in the house of commons Wednesday by Labor Minister Mitchell, youths of these ages who are not attending school may be required to take certain jobs but none will be taken out of schools or colleges.

It is expected many of them will be used in relieving labor shortages in farming and cutting of fuelwood, and to replace men transferred out of the less essential jobs.

Details of the plan for using these young workers have not been worked out but Mitchell said they would be taken to prevent them being directed to jobs distant from their homes.

Allies Inflict Heavy Casualties On Nippon Forces

NEW DELHI, June 25.—(CP)—Seaforth Highlanders, Indian troops and native Burmese levies have fought three sharp skirmishes with Japanese forces on the Kaladan river front in northwestern Burma during the past few days, inflicting severe casualties on the enemy while suffering light losses, a British communique said today.

Urge Building Of Transport Planes in U.K.

By ALAN RANDAL

LONDON, June 25—(CP)—Urging the immediate start of large scale production of transport aircraft, the Society of British Aircraft Constructors said in a statement yesterday that "Much can be done without hindering the supply of combat aircraft from British factories."

The society recommended the construction of transport planes based on heavy bomber type, to be used in war transport operations and to be shifted immediately into commercial work at the end of the war.

PRODUCED IN U.S.

Military transport planes now are being produced by the United States, while Great Britain is concentrating on combat planes.

The society urged the complete understanding with the Dominions on air problems. The statement said the British empire must take a leading part in the post-war development of air transport operation.

The society condemned the alleged monopoly system governing British commercial airline operations, declaring that the post-war business will be so great that "there will be scope for the operation of at least eight or 10 main British companies."

Any state aid to such companies should be on a payment for the carriage of mail or similar services and not in subsidies or monopoly rights, the society added.

Similar statement has been submitted to Prime Minister Churchill and to the ministries of air, aircraft production and war transport.

Allied Attacks On Continent Hit New Peak

from preliminary reports great damage appears to have been done," a communique declared.

Heavy defensive activity was reported by the fliers who returned from the area, which Hitler has packed with anti-aircraft guns, searchlight batteries and fighter planes in an effort to stav off the battering being given his heavy industries in the region.

IMPORTANT PLANTS

Wuppertal was formed in 1929 by an amalgamation of the towns of Elberfeld and Barmen and had a population of more than 400,000.

Chief targets at Elberfeld are the I. G. Farbenindustrie chemical works, rubber plants that turn out roller bearings, and a number of textile factories.

In the May 29 attack the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. also put 23 planes out, but was believed virtually to have wiped out the Barmen section.

Last night's raid, accomplished on a cloudless night marked the fifth consecutive night the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. has struck either Germany or Italy with the most paralyzing blows falling on the vital Ruhr area.

6TH NIGHT OF ATTACK

It was the sixth night of a powerful offensive which began with the assault on the Schneider munitions works at Le Creusot, 170 miles southeast of Paris, last Saturday night.

The offensive has included the first great daylight assault by British bombers on the Ruhr, an assault which set ablaze the important German synthetic rubber plant at Hüls.

It was pointed up by the spectacular round-trip R.A.F. bombing raid between bases in England and North Africa.

In the six-day period 135 Allied bombers had been lost.

The air ministry said that German anti-aircraft guns dropped bombs harmlessly during the night in one place on the southeast coast of England.

The German radio declared that eight Allied planes were lost in daylight attacks on German-occupied territory yesterday.

R.A.F. fighters prowling over Western Europe during the night harassed enemy air bases and shot down at least one German plane over an airdrome in the Netherlands.

The night raids followed a day of intense Allied aerial activity in which 400 to 500 bombers and fighters hammered at Hitler's "Atlantic wall" defences from the Netherlands to France's Cherbourg peninsula.

Participating in these operations were many types of aircraft, including Thunderbolts, medium bombers, Typhoons, Spitfires, Venturas and Bostons. Represented in the attacking forces were Canadian, Polish and Norwegian airmen.

war work. The only alternative would be to extend the principle of selective service and make it universal in character."

He said he would approve legislation which would truly strengthen the hands of the government in dealing with strikes harming the war effort and which would prevent defiance of decisions of the war labor board.

WASHINGTON, June 25—President Roosevelt said today that he did not accept the Oct. 31 work deadline set by the policy committee of the United Mine Workers in ordering the recent strike ended.

In reply to a question as to whether he accepted the Oct. 31 deadline proposed by the U.M.W. when its policy committee ordered miners back to work under government management this week, Mr. Roosevelt said so without qualification. He added that he was trying to mine coal and was going to keep on doing it.

NATION'S LIFE AT "TAKE

There are some people, he said, who seem to forget that we are at war and that the life of the nation is at stake.

If the coal is not mined, he said, we might be cold next winter.

As President Roosevelt talked to reporters at this press conference, less than half the U.M.W.'s 530,000 hard and soft coal miners had obeyed the union's back-to-work order and blast furnaces were being banked at several of the nation's largest steel plants.

Meanwhile, members of the U.S. war labor board called on War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes to demand that John L. Lewis and the U.M.W. be compelled by the president to accept the W.L.B.-dictated settlement of the coal industry's explosive wage dispute.

Allied Bombers Turn Attention To Greek Port

medium and fighter-bombers carried out successful daytime forays against railroad yards at Venafiorita, Golfo Aranci, and Capoterra, all in Sardinia, Allied headquarters announced.

RULE THE AIR

Once again the Allied planes virtually ruled the air. In the Sardinian forays yesterday, 20 enemy planes were shot down and on the preceding night the Northwest African forces chalked up one enemy bomber as destroyed.

All American planes returned safely from the Sardinia raid, but nine Allied planes failed to get back to the Northwest African bases.

Today's Italian communique, released by the Associated Press from a Rome broadcast, claimed that Italian torpedo planes sank three steamers, totalling 31,000 tons out of Allied convoys along the North African coasts, after repeated night attacks. Three more were reported damaged.

(Rome also asserted that Bizerte and ships at anchor there were attacked by Axis bombers.)

Allies Mark Sicily Down For Invasion

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—The pattern of the Allied air attack—one of the surest signposts of the future course of the war—has suggested strongly that Sicily may soon become the next objective of the 1943 Allied land forces and that full-scale invasion of the west along the road to Berlin is not likely until later.

This is unofficial speculation, based on a study of the targets of the aerial onslaught and the reaction along the still-stabilized eastern front in Russia.

By a carefully studied plan the mighty winged partnership of the R.A.F., the R.C.A.F. and the United States 8th Air Force is concentration upon the factory-by-factory ruin of the Reich's Ruhr war plants.

WHITTLE DOWN POWER

Obviously the crippling toll of this systematic assault is not sapping the Axis field force at present massed awaiting invasion, but is intended to whittle down and prevent the replacement of the Wehrmacht's power in the months to come.

When actual pre-invasion bombing comes it probably will find terrific Allied striking power centred on destruction of air fields on the French front and on raid and rail supply lines to the invasion coast.

This clearly is developing in Sicily.

There is every indication in the massing of Allied armies in North Africa and the Middle East that a great attack on Sardinia, Crete and the Dodecanese islands might be undertaken at virtually the same time, in order to deploy the Axis' defence strength and win full and final control of the entire Mediterranean.

Claim Gibraltar Has Rock Slide

LONDON, June 25.—(CP)—The Berlin radio quoted dispatches from Seville yesterday as claiming a sudden landslide had dislodged a million tons of earth and rock from the eastern face of Gibraltar.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, asserted it would take more than a year to clear away the debris and that British military authorities had decided to build new approaches.

There was no confirmation of the report from British sources.

Manpower Debate

Member Voices Criticism Of Doukhobor Situation, Urges Work be Provided

OTTAWA, June 25.—(CP)—Hon. Grote Stirling (Prog. Con., Yale), said in the House of Commons last night that no action has been taken against British Columbia Doukhobors who have failed to respond to Mobilization Act notices, while other residents of the same communities have complied with regulations, or, when they failed to do so, have been proceeded against.

Mr. Stirling said the first leader of the Doukhobors in Canada, Peter Veregin, had been killed in a bomb explosion blamed on a recalcitrant member of his own band. He had been followed by Peter Vbregin II, who died a year or two ago, who was "intemperate, bestial, a bully, a perjurer, but was looked on as the descendant of God by his followers."

A Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer had examined the Doukhobor problem and made suggestions as to how Doukhabor men in military age groups could be used to cut fuelwood.

SHOULD PROVIDE WORK

Some such work should be provided for them, "so that these people may no longer hang around the beer parlors and pool halls . . ." said Mr. Stirling.

Labor Minister Mitchell, whose war appropriation estimates were under review, said that Mr. Stirling's mention of the Doukhobors association with beer parlors and poolrooms indicated "they are becoming civilized in a way they were not in the old country."

One of the reasons for the success of British government was that it did not interfere too much with other people's. What Mr. Stirling had said indicated the Doukhobors eventually would become assimilated with the bosom of the Canadian family.

"Not in our life time," said Tom Reid (Lib., New Westminster).

"When my good friend, the honorable member for New Westminster is pushing up the daisies there may even be a Doukhobor mayor of New Westminster," said Mr. Mitchell.

It was to the credit of the labor department that it had been able to have the Doukhobors co-operate more than they had in the past.

PLAN "ADJUSTMENTS"

"If my honorable friend (Mr. Stirling) will leave the Doukhobor problem with us for another six months we will see if we can get it on the rails, and have these people play the same part that other conscientious objectors are playing at the moment in the life of this country," said the minister.

Hughes Cleaver (Lib., Halton), said there would have to be a substantial movement of workers from war industries which were "tapering off" at a time when the needs of other essential industries were developing.

Canada's war effort apparently was more appreciated abroad than in the house, he commented.

H. B. McKinnon (Lib., Kenora-Rainy River) said the public often was more responsible for industrial disputes than it realized. Public opinion, if brought to bear in time, often could have avoided strikes developing.

"No strike ever occurs which could not have been avoided by men of goodwill," he said.

The government should go "all out" in supporting workers obtaining full collective bargaining rights. Recognition of mutual rights as between labor and industry would lead to industrial peace.

The actual compulsory transfer of workers under selective service should be undertaken only after cases concerned had been examined by a local committee.

MODEL EMPLOYER

The government should be a model employer and "milk of human kindness should be injected into those people on the treasury board" to permit speedy improvement in salaries paid civil servants in lower grades.

Alfred Bence (Prog. Con., Saskatoon City) said the manpower policy should have been called the best that could be improvised in the past six months.

Some assertions made by Mr. Mitchell in his review of manpower policies Wednesday actually were nothing more than "pious hopes."

Mr. Bence said it appeared that Elliott M. Little, former director of National Eelective Service had been given an "unfair deal" by the administration.

"Mr. Little did not quit the ship; he was pushed off," said Mr. Bence.

DETENTION CLAUSE

Copies of a draft order-in-council drawn up by Mr. Little's department and the justice department contained a provision for detention for a day of any person who willfully insulted the director during a hearing.

Mr. Bence said this section of the draft order had been sent throughout the country "in black type," evidently to give people a wrongful opinion of Mr. Little.

Actually the section was found in other federal regulations, and its inclusion in a draft order favored by Mr. Little did not mean he personally had asked it be inserted.

Farm Costs Said Factor In Subsidies

OTTAWA, June 25.—(CP)—J. F. Singleton, chairman of the Dairy Products Board, told the House of Commons agriculture committee yesterday that farm production costs were a factor in deciding subsidies to be paid for dairy products, but that estimates of living costs varied, even between various farmers.

The board had to consider the relationship between the prices and the demand for various products. Essentiality of the product was important, he said.

ASKED QUESTIONS

Mr. Singleton was asked questions about subsidies by G. A. Cruickshank (Lib., Fraser Valley).

"In arriving at a subsidy you are not concerned about the farmers' costs of production; you are concerned with getting the supplies?" asked Mr. Cruickshank.

"Certainly the costs of production are a factor in deciding the price," Mr. Singleton, "but estimates of production costs vary widely, and there could be no true average even as between farmers."

"I wonder why agricultural products should be picked out and an arbitrary price placed on them without any relation to the cost of production," said Robert Fair (N.D., Battle River.)

"Prices of munitions are based on production costs, but that is not done for agriculture. It is an injustice."

Bruce McNiven (Lib., Victoria, Ont.), said production costs had been considered. He instanced that butter producers had been paid a bonus on winter production.

BONUS FOR DELIVERIES

Mr. Fair said farmers could benefit from the bonus only when they delivered to creameries, and many could not do so. Also there had been a lowering in the grades granted for cream after the bonus became applicable.

"I don't know if that is known down here," said Mr. Fair.

Mr. Singleton said cream grading was a provincial responsibility. The grade standards for cream were fairly uniform, and the provinces had staffs engaged in such work.

Jap Regiment Held at Bay By Lone Yank

WASHINGTON, June 25. —(AP)—An epic story of the south Pacific campaign, how Sgt. John Basilone, 26, held a strategic machine gun post for three days and nights without rest or food against a Japanese regiment, was told Wednesday by the United States navy department.

Basilone was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, the United States' highest battle honor, for his heroism which, the navy said, contributed "in a large measure to the virtual annihilation of a Japanese regiment."

During those 72 hours, the navy relates, Basilone piled up 38 Japanese bodies in front of his machine gun, and a companion said he also used his pistol to break Nipponese attacks on the vital emplacement.

The action occurred last October during fighting in the Lunga area of Guadalcanal.

Plan to Continue Ice Cream Ration

OTTAWA, June 25—(CP)—J. F. Singleton, chairman of the Dairy Products Board, said yesterday before the house of commons agriculture committee that restriction of ice cream supplies, made effective last year, probably will have to be continued indefinitely to conserve dairy products.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

Southern France looms as a likely invasion target with announcement that Rommel, formerly of Africa, is rushing fortifications on the Mediterranean shore. Allies might strike on both Atlantic (Bay of Biscay) and Mediterranean shores like they did against Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts of French North Africa last fall. The Nazis have had the least time to prepare their defences here, and a direct drive up the Rhone valley would by-pass Italy and its mountain barriers to attack on Germany. Unity of fighting Frenchmen in North Africa is another indication that an attempt to liberate France may be soon coming. Only disadvantage is the long naval haul open to attack from Axis bases, but still Britain is closer to Bordeaux than it was to Algiers, and Tunisia is closer to Toulon than the U.S. was to Casablanca in November, 1942.

Urges Admission of Mistakes

Graydon Asks Sweeping Investigation Of Selective Service "Inefficiency"

By JAMES McCOOK

OTTAWA, June 25.—(CP)—Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, said in the House of Commons yesterday that there should be a sweeping investigation of "inefficiency" in National Selective Service administration.

Mr. Graydon said the government had failed to use the most effective methods to utilize manpower in meeting the needs of industry, agriculture and the armed forces.

He declared that Labor Minister Mitchell, whose war appropriation estimates of $21,558,192 were before the house, should be ready to admit that manpower policy mistakes had been made instead of calling that policy the best that could be devised.

"If there ever was a need for a sweeping investigation of this administration it is now, even at this late date," Mr. Graydon said.

PRAISES MITCHELL

Rev. Dan McIvor (Lib. Fort William) praised Mr. Mitchell's work as minister of labor.

He said he believed it would be well to have a clergyman on the national war labor board. "A man who looks to the other side of life, and I think that is needed, for today we find labor organizations sometimes holding their meetings on the Sabbath day."

"The members of this house, no matter to which body they belong, should not hold political meetings on the Sabbath day, and my remarks now are directed just as much to the Liberal party as to any other party."

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F. Winnipeg North Centre) said trade union organization and collective bargaining should be extended in time of war to ensure efficient production and give working people the understanding that they were doing their own work in production and would produce to the limit of their capacity.

RAPS WAGE POLICY

A policy of putting ceiling on wages should not have carried with it the possibility that in some cases the floor would be the ceiling. The minimum wage rates should not be looked on as basic wages.

Mr. Mitchell said labor and wages were a matter of provincial jurisdiction but as a result of recent national war labor board meetings there might be some crystallization of viewpoints on minimum wage laws in the provinces and the end desired by Mr. Knowles might be achieved.

The provinces had worked out generally satisfactory machinery dealing with minimum wages, and he expressed belief that when the war was over they would demand complete jurisdiction rights be returned.

Mr. Knowles said there had been a Winnipeg complaint that the selective service office there appeared to be used by some employers paying low wages to help them retain their workers.

National selective service was not being used to cut down wages, to his knowledge, the minister said.

NO PUBLIC HEARINGS

It was not possible to have public hearings on the establishment of industries as essential or non-essential for purposes of compulsory employment transfer regulations.

The priority scheme in this respect was held confidential. This schedule changed from day to day, and public debate on it could not be held. A plant might switch from one program to another quickly, and if there were public hearings "you would be continually discussing and arguing about priority in the respective war industries in the country."

Mr. Graydon said the government had failed to make effective use of the national registration conducted in 1940. Many felt that Elliott M. Little, former director of National Selective Service, who resigned last November, had been "too good a planner for what the government had in mind."

Defence of Mr. Little apparently tried to bring his branch to a point of efficiency and dispatch, and had attempted to see if the government was prepared to do its utmost, in compliance with 1939 undertakings, to prosecute the war effort with all vigor.

COMMISSION "JEALOUS"

It appeared the Unemployment Insurance Commission, also a unit of the labor department, had been jealous of National Selective Service which was to be superimposed on it.

"When Mr. Little resigned in November and his resignation was accepted, of course the Unemployment Insurance Commission had won the day," said Mr. Graydon.

The Conservative house leader read the Winnipeg convention resolution advocating unrestricted national selective service as representing his party's view of one aspect of the government's manpower policy.

Labor and agriculture had not been brought into partnership in the war effort as they should have been and had not been given proper recognition in the formation of policy.

Mr. Graydon used official figures to indicate a sharp wartime increase in employment in such civilian occupations as fur making, beverage manufacturing, laundries and cleaning plants.

Lose Propeller

Depth Charge Disables "Old Tub" in Sub Battle

By STANLEY MANTROP

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, June 25.—(CP)—Attacked in the night by an enemy submarine scouting a convoy in the Atlantic, crewmen of an Ontario lake freighter told yesterday how the blast of an exploding depth charge tore off their propeller and left them adrift until taken in tow by another naval ship.

Her hull rusted and barnacle-covered from months on the north Atlantic trade routes, the dumpy little laker presented little of her peacetime appearance as she shunted up to a Canadian dock for the first time in many a moon.

Poking skyward from her stern was the ugly muzzle of her anti-submarine gun, getting its last polishing from her crew of Royal Navy gunners. After a refit, the laker will return to the inland seas for a few cargoes before going back to the ocean trade.

"LUCKY OLD TUB"

"She's a mighty lucky old tub," one of the crewmen remarked. "It's pretty hard to remember how many times the Germans have tried to get her with torpedoes; she's watched a lot of other ships go down but so far all she's lost is her propeller."

The night that happened they said they were warned to look out for U-boats and started firing "on the first thing that looked like a submarine."

The men said the next thing they heard was the burst of the escort ship's depth charges and some of them almost lifted the laker's stern out of the water.

"One of them did get the ship's propeller and left us helpless right in the middle of things," crewmen said. "Luckily one of the escorts got a line on us and towed us in —or we might'n have been here to tell the tale."

"Feud" Continues

Luftwaffe's Lustiest Blows Still Debated by Britons

By DOUG HOW

LONDON, June 25.—(CP)—There is no particular reason to suspect Britons will ever make a truce on this domestic issue of the bombs.

It ignites when Londoners go to Liverpool or when somebody from Glasgow crosses somebody from Coventry in a crowded railway coach. The combination of personalities makes little difference.

It's the question that counts.

It is: "Where felt the lustiest blows of the Luftwaffe?"

There is the case of a Londoner. He lives in a southern suburb and his wife is sure their home, off by itself, was used by the German bombers as a pathfinder. Anyway, they used to drop the odd bomb just by way of thanks.

SAME AS LIVERPOOL

It's the same thing in Liverpool. The bobbies on the dock are willing to admit London probably had it tough but swore the Mersey enticed heavier raids than the Thames.

Then there are Bristol and Plymouth and Birmingham.

Some of them realize they are strictly second-raters but there is always some category where they rank themselves tops.

It is difficult to say how this thing will ever find settlement. It may develop into something like the England vs. Scotland feud they still fight up in the Highlands.

The government could issue figures but their inanimate candor would never quiet this issue.

Unfortunately, there is only one arbitrar who is both qualified and impartial. And nobody in Britain would believe a German.

Executive Council Members Selected By Seed Growers

CHARLOTTETOWN, June 25.—(CP)—Final selection of officers and executive council members was made yesterday by the board of directors of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

Alex M. Stewart of Ailsa Craig, Ont., was named vice-president and W. T. G. Wiener of Ottawa continues as secretary-treasurer.

Executive council members are President E. L. Eaton, Upper Canard, N.S., Mr. Stewart, R. H. Cottingham, Petersfield, Man., W. H. Robertson, Victoria, Richard Platte, Nipawin, Sask., Paul Methot, Quebec, and H. P. Wright, Airdrie, Sask.

President, honorary officers and directors were elected Wednesday.

Two Lose Lives As Quebec Rivers Swollen by Rain

SHERBROOKE, Que., June 25.—(CP)—Two persons were killed in Quebec's Eastern Townships last week when a five-day torrential rain sent swollen rivers on a rampage that isolated dozens of communities and caused hundreds of thousands of dollars damage. News of the disastrous flooding was withheld by censorship authorities until yesterday for security reasons.

Attack 2 Subs Within Month Off East Coast

OTTAWA, June 25.—(CP)—For the second time in slightly more than a month, R.C.A.F. headquarters yesterday described an attack on an enemy submarine by a crew headed by Flt. Lt. J. W. C. Langmuir of Toronto.

The time of the attack was not given, and neither was the official report of the result. Langmuir dodged among cloudbanks for more than six miles to launch the attack off the east coast of Canada.

PREVIOUS ATTACK

The previously-announced attack by Langmuir and his crew was during a long Atlantic battle by ships and planes against a German wolf pack which attacked a convoy. The crew included Flt. Sgt. M. W. Paul of Fairview, Alta., and WO2 C. C. Hazlett of Chilliwack, B.C.

Their aircraft was heading out to sea to convoy escort duty in the clear light of early morning when the surfaced submarine was spotted skulking behind the convoy.

Flt. Lt. Langmuir zoomed to the cover of the nearest cloud bank 800 feet above and stayed among the clouds until his plane was in position to dive for the attack.

Levelling off, the aircraft dropped depth charges.

"Unfortunately the submarine turned so that the charges fell near the tail instead of the bow," said Langmuir. "She didn't submerge for almost a minute after they exploded. I think one landed near the fin.

"That was when I hollered for Red Hazlett (No. 1 air gunner) to be ready with the guns. I thought we'd damaged his fins and he was staying on the surface to shoot it out."

READY WITH GUNS

Hazlett was ready with his guns but the submarine went under, wallowing in a tight turn with its tail high out of the sea, said the R.C.A.F. Minutes later, as the captain lifted the Canso into a circle above, two geysers of frothy water erupted and they were still boiling as clouds cut off the view.

Post-War Union Of State, Private Enterprise Urged

WINNIPEG, June 25.—(CP)—P. Lazarowich of Edmonton told the All-Canadian Ukrainian Congress here yesterday that state enterprise and private enterprise must become inseparable friends and partners in the task of post-war reconstruction.

"They must not compete against or displace but rather assist and supplement each other," he said.

Discussing the Marsh report, Mr. Lazarowich said that to incorporate any of the proposals of the report into the social and economic life of Canada, there would have to be the closest co-operation between the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

Stimson Suggests:

Air Blows May Have Averted German Offensive in Russia

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—The blasting of German industrial areas by Allied bombers in repeated assaults from British bases may have wrecked Axis plans for a great summer offensive in Russia, War Secretary Henry Stimson suggested yesterday.

Reporting that recent raids by both British and American bombers against German targets had been met by strong forces of enemy fighters, Stimson told a press conference this indicated Germany had found it necessary to concentrate much of her fighter plane strength to protect industrial and military installations on the home front.

"It is probable," he said, "that many of these planes were withdrawn from the eastern front, which may be one reason why Germany has not yet launched a summer offensive in Russia."

Another possible explanation for the delay of the long-expected Axis drive against the Red army was seen in Stimson's report that Germany had shifted 10 or 12 additional divisions into France, and has sent several divisions to Italy.

This latter move seemed to dispose of speculation that Germany intended to leave Italy alone to face an Allied drive from North Africa.

Stimson's statements supported a growing belief in some quarters here that the German offensive against Russia now has been abandoned.

Some observers see in this a tacit admission by the German high command that an Axis victory is no longer a possibility, that German strength must be saved to fight off Allied attacks.

WARN OF DISASTER

In line with this, they point to a change of tone noticed in recent German broadcasts, both those for home consumption and those beamed overseas. The home broadcasts no longer threaten, or boast of Axis invincibility, but instead warn the German population of possible disaster.

Less Delay in Prospect

The attempts which have been made to jockey the Farmers Creditors' Arrangement Act into the discard have failed, and the bill to amend the Act is to be introduced in parliament shortly by the Minister of Justice. No doubt we shall then have the privilege of reading again all the stock arguments of some eastern members as to how the Act is ruining the credit of western farmers and preventing them selling their farms. But that this specious talk will cause the House to throw out the Act is much less liable to happen than it was on some former occasions.

One important amendment, it is said, will do away with the travelling boards of adjusters who have hitherto administered the Act, and make district and county court judges the referees to arrange settlement between farmers and creditors. This should be a convenience to both parties, and should speed up the hearing and settlement of appeals, which heretofore have had to wait while the adjustment boards made their widely extended rounds. There have been times when the boards were hopelessly in arrears. With district and county court judges available as referees, such delays should be avoided in future.

Convoys for China

The new supply route to China—reported under construction shortly after the Japanese closed the Burma road—has been opened, and convoys are now rolling again to the isolated Chinese forces. The new road climbs over the Himalayas and crosses the Tibet tableland. It is of course round-about and transport is necessarily be slow and costly in comparison. But there is the incalculable advantage that it lies well beyond reach of the enemy, save perhaps by air, and is defensible from India as well as from China.

How greatly the new supply line will improve the position of the Chinese must depend largely upon what kind of road it has been possible to construct. If trucks, tanks, guns and other heavy equipment and supplies can be handled readily, and therefore in large volume, the loss of the shorter Burma route will be discounted. It is this class of munitions—too heavy to be flown in—the Chinese mainly require.

It is noted that the route has been opened "after negotiations" on the part of China and Britain "with the government of Tibet" and is being used with the consent of the latter. The Axis powers do not of course go through such formalities when they want to make use of the territory of another country; they just seize the territory and shoot the resisting inhabitants. That marks the difference.

Going and Coming

The R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. have introduced something new into the air offensive that is tearing the industrial machinery of Hitler's empire to pieces. The method which wrecked Friedrichshafen last Saturday night did not turn about and fly back to Britain. They went on to North Africa. Tuesday night they made the return trip, blasting the Italian naval base of Spezia on the way. None of the planes, it is now reported, was lost on either flight.

This "shuttling" method is a kind of tactics never before employed. The success of the try-out is likely to lead to its quite general use. An obvious advantage is that planes which are sent to attack a distant target can carry heavier loads of bombs when they are scheduled to proceed to a field nearer to the target than the base they start from. As Britain has plenty of bombs and Russia plenty of oil, planes from Britain and Russia might do some "shuttling" across the Reich with good results.

An immediate surmise may be that Italy will be put under this new type of cross-fire by bombers flying between Britain and North Africa, delivering cargoes of explosives on Mussolini's war plants going and coming.

A "central position" because of short "interior lines of communication" used to be advantageous to a country at war. It is less so when the enemy on each side is powerful in the air. "Shuttle" bombing is likely to make the central position a hot spot.

Why Penalize the West?

Premier Godbout announced that the Government of Quebec has protested to the Dominion cabinet against the decision to not make a redistribution of representation in the House of Commons during wartime. As the constitution calls for a redistribution following each decennial census there is legal ground for the protest, but that is all that can be said for it.

The war has caused shifts of population in Canada beyond precedent, and the census of 1941 is not a fair basis upon which to re-allot federal constituencies as between province and province or between the west and the east. Thousands of people whose homes are in western Canada, and who will certainly return when the war is ended, have been drawn to the war plants in the more heavily industrialized eastern provinces. In addition, the raising of men for service abroad and the stationing of home defence corps in coastal areas have thrown the spread of population farther out of resemblance to normal.

If a redistribution bill was passed on the basis of the 1941 count, Manitoba would lose four seats in parliament and Saskatchewan three, a total loss of seven seats to the prairie provinces. This situation has not come about because immigration and births have caused the population in the older provinces to grow more rapidly than that of the prairie region, but simply because a large fraction of the prairie population has shifted temporarily and for public reasons to the eastern half of the Dominion. To demand that parliamentary representation be adjusted to meet this abnormal condition, only to be re-adjusted when the condition has ended, is not reasonable.

With 65 members in the House, Quebec does not stand to suffer materially because Ontario's representation of 82 is not to be increased for a time at the expense of the west for reasons and in circumstances which the framers of the constitution never dreamed of. In protesting because this is not to be done the Government of Quebec is showing something less than the fairness that province has usually shown toward the western provinces.

Why should the west be penalized because its young men and women have answered the call to join the fighting forces and to staff the war plants?

Few Canadians ever before heard of Krefeld. Yet it was important enough as a munitions town that 770 R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. planes attacked it in a raid Monday night. Krefeld is only a few miles from Duisburg, further evidence of how closely the Ruhr area has been packed with war plants—and of where Hitler has been getting the tools to replace his enormous losses in Russia and North Africa.

Should Hereditary Titles Be Restored in Canada?

Would Anything be Gained By Raising Ban on These Honors?

By HAROLD L. WEIR

For the sake of argument—which in these decadent times is as good a reason as I can think of—suppose we consider the reasons why hereditary titles should be restored in Canada.

Perhaps a good way to open such a symposium would be to mull over the circumstances which led to the ban on such honors in the first place.

There is no doubt in the world that there is a sort of snobbery behind much of the prejudice against titles. For instance, if you should catch an Harold L. Weir earldom and I should be passed up. I would be inclined to resent the inference that I was not as good as you are, and consequently be bitterly opposed to the whole system of titles.

There was probably a good deal of this feeling behind the wave of democratic frenzy that banned titles in Canada. But that was not the sole reason for the action or even the most important one.

The fundamental purpose in this step was to end an abuse that had come perilously close to a public scandal.

Titles were being sown broadcast among the most amazing people. They were being used to pay political debts. They were being used to compliment men who had no other virtue than the knack of amassing money. In some instances, they were almost openly sold.

So, risking a technical affront to the Crown, the government of the day simply wiped the whole business out. It was an understandable and in some respects a laudable action.

Our business here is simply to enquire if it was the best way of dealing with the situation.

It is never disagreeable to say that hereditary titles have no useful part in North American life. Life on this continent is no different to life anywhere else. And it is a fundamental fact of human nature that some individuals possess qualities that are superior to the qualities of average individuals. I'm speaking mainly of spiritual qualities.

The few who demonstrate these high spiritual qualities cannot be rewarded with money. They seldom possess the intellectual faculties of rewarding themselves with money.

So the only way of recognizing their superior qualities is by attaching to them some mark of honor.

This is the reason in social justice for titles. There is another reason, a eugenic one. Actually it is just as logical to confer titles on the superior stock of human beings as it is to register blooded livestock.

Whether or not this hereditary aristocracy should participate in government is something I do not choose to discuss. There is this, however, to be said: that the English House of Lords offers a much more reliable and constant cross section of average intelligence and average opinion than the House of Commons.

The Commons has the dangerous tendency to grow into an intellectual aristocracy. The Lords, as generations pass, become blessedly average. Sometimes the Commons, in this respect, is infinitely less democratic than the Lords.

This paradox, of course, is neither here nor there in Canada.

Prejudice

The majority of the people entertain an unreasonable prejudice against aristocracy because their conception of history is weird and wonderful.

In spite of the fact, for instance, that British blood is quite 80 per cent Northman or Norman, we are still taught to regard the Norman conquest as a dreadful event in which a number of French aristocrats imposed their military might upon the common Saxons. We therefore identify ourselves with the poor oppressed Saxons, forgetting that the Romano-Celtic England of the fifth and sixth centuries was a pretty decent sort of place until these Teutonic savages from across the sea came along and befouled it.

It was not a class crash at all.

The Normans were not French. They were Scandinavian. And their conquest was the best thing that ever happened to England because until these heavily bred people inherent beastliness of the ferocious and uncouth Germanic tribes, that had overrun the civilized England of the Romano-Celts.

The Norman conquest revivilized England. And that is why our aristocratic family dates from the Normans. The aristocracy of England, originally, was not the imposition of a superior race upon a weaker; it was civilization combatting barbarism, the superior man bringing law and order and justice into a realm then tormented by savages.

Today

It is not to be supposed that the function of a titled class today is exactly the same as the function of the titled class a thousand years ago. And yet its nature is somewhat the same.

There must always be those whose tradition and high purpose it is to defend civilization from man's natural inclination to return to savagery and disorder.

Obviously, these guardians of civilization, traditionally marked out by honors from the Sovereign, could be entrusted with the kind of people who were getting titles in Canada before the ban. The man who has made a million dollars, for instance, is not, per se, the fit person to be a custodian of civilization.

Nevertheless, there is something of value in the system of royal honors.

If titles were to be restored in Canada, the recipients would have to be selected by some other body than the Government.

Perhaps a committee could be formed from all walks of life to deal with the matter. Then, if the selected list of candidates was publicized and submitted to public criticism and passed by the Supreme Court, it might be fit to submit to His Majesty.

On no other terms would a restoration be acceptable to the people of Canada.

We want no Whig aristocracy here.

Air Force Recruits Vitamins

Medical Officers Found Army Rations Lacking In This Essential

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

Vitamins have attained an all high in the importance of things today. They are being recruited by the Royal Canadian Air Force, whose medical men caused little less amazement than a bomb explosion at Air Force headquarters in Ottawa when they suggested there was something lacking in the traditional army ration.

Since the Boer war days the traditional army rations have been one pound of meat, one pound of potatoes, one pound of bread per man per day.

The R.C.A.F. medical men set out to do something about the ration, to redesign its 4,000 calories into something on the lighter side. They looked for something that would make brighter students of the thousands of R.C.A.F. men in training. But little did they anticipate their interest would lead them into an educational campaign, via motion pictures and the printed word, that would reach not only airmen, but also a large number of Canadian civilians.

They first insisted on a modern diet, planned particularly for men who spend half their training hours in a classroom. It was they who suggested recruiting women dietitians from restaurants, hotels and hospitals to supervise preparation of food. And it was the R.C.A.F. medical branch that showed the need for educating airmen in proper eating habits, and supervised production of a motion picture to achieve that purpose.

Now the motion picture, produced in color for the R.C.A.F. by associated Screen Studios, is being shown at all Air Force stations throughout Canada. It graphically explains what constitutes proper diet, and shows what diet deficiencies are likely to result if the airman does consume his entire ration.

This information, summarized in a booklet, is handed to the airman as he leaves the movie, and it is suggested he send it to the folks at home. Life insurance companies and the Canadian Medical Association sponsored the booklet, and will distribute copies to civilians.

Members of air crew are highly skilled specialists whose success as fighting men, whose very lives depend on being at the peak of mental and physical efficiency. From recent progress in the science of nutrition, medical men know that this efficiency depends on an adequate supply of vitamins.

So a properly balanced vitamin diet should have ended the problem. But it was soon discovered that the carefully counted vitamins were missing at the mess table. Improper preparation of food was wasting up to 85 per cent of them.

The next step was to start recruiting dietitians into the Women's Division, to supervise food selection and preparation. Men cooks scoffed at first, and airmen wondered what women were doing poking around their food. But soon complaints became fewer, there was a definite improvement in diet values.

Scientific Feeding

To put this program on a scientific basis, the R.C.A.F. established a nutrition laboratory, of which there are four now. It was their task to study foods, work out satisfactory variations in menus, and to check foods being served to airmen.

Cooks are now being trained at the R.C.A.F. school of cookery at Guelph, Ontario. Here, too, is a test kitchen—all to ensure maximum vitamins in each serving at breakfast, dinner and supper.

But popular eating habits are not easily altered. Thus the final chapter in the R.C.A.F. nutrition story concerns the making of a movie to tell airmen why they must have vitamins A, B1, B2, C and D—what they do, from what foods they are obtained, and why it is important that the entire ration containing those foods should be eaten.

The airman's needs are compared with those of the plane he flies—fuel to make it go, sugars, starches and fats for bodily heat and energy; materials for repairs and replacements, proteins and minerals for body building.

Greatest emphasis is placed on essential vitamins that keep the airman tuned to peak of efficiency —Vitamin A to keep the body "tuned up"; B1 for alertness; B2 for healthy eyes; C for healthy tissues and blood vessels; D to aid the body's assimilation and use of calcium.

That the motion picture serves its purpose is shown by test screenings just prior to its general release last month. Consumption of fruit juices doubled the day following and milk and cheese consumption were up almost as much.

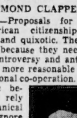

The R.C.A.F. believes that vitamins, speed and firepower are going to win the air war for our side.

British-American Co-Operation

Relations Between Forces In England Are Found Most Amicable

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

LONDON—Proposals for joint British-American citizenship are unfortunate and quixotic. They are unfortunate because they needlessly arouse controversy and antagonism to much more reasonable plans for international co-operation. They are quixotic because they rely on a mechanical plan, and ignore the strong human factors which are important realities in the world of politics.

Raymond Clapper

It's like proposing that, in order to have a peaceful neighborhood, all families must merge under a common roof, thus possibly provoking just the opposite of neighborhood peace.

One of my pleasant surprises on this visit to England is that I find an unexpectedly large amount of friendly spirit and true co-operation between the British and American forces, especially at the higher levels of the air forces. It is being demonstrated between the air forces here, and also I suppose in the North African theatre, that the forces of two separate nations can function as a joint force by pooling their facilities. It is being demonstrated now, in action, that there are enough reasonable human beings in higher positions in both nations and in both forces to make them, for all practical purposes, one force.

You need go no further than this to find a model for the so-called international force to keep the peace. It need not be formally international, but a group functioning as the British and American forces function now under the combined chiefs of staff.

A year ago, in Africa, India and China, I found not too much mutual confidence. In fact much of the opposite—much mutual general criticism. It was difficult to determine, by listening to the talk among Americans and British, who was the enemy.

Several of the American army stations I have visited in England have been provided for us by the British on a reciprocal lend-lease basis. If the R.A.F. had not turned over to us some of its facilities, including some of its best permanent stations, our air force would be seriously delayed in getting its full strength into the air. Our air force officers will freely acknowledge their debt to the R.A.F. for radio equipment. Much of the American radio-location equipment in North Africa came from the British.

General Eaker and Air Marshal Harris are close friends. They live near each other, and they are constantly in touch with each other, as are their staffs.

I have asked both the army air forces and the army service forces about some reported instances of the British holding out on equipment on us, but I am assured these reports are erroneous. For instance, as to one secret device which I had heard the British were withholding from our air forces, on the contrary it is being provided and is being used as a basis for important superprises still to come in air tactics.

One group of American technicians that came over recently was skeptical about the effort the British had made for using certain facilities here to manufacture an item needed by the American army. The American group, on arriving, asked what the British expected to get out of it. They checked the whole proposition with extreme suspicion because they feared that their own peacetime business might be affected, but they could find no postwar angle that could be used, and finally concluded that the proposition was meant to help win the war more quickly, and recommended its acceptance.

That is not to say there is no self-interest at work, because of course there is in every country, and the best bargain is one that both sides profit from. We may be sure the British will drive the best bargains they can, and so will everybody else, including, I hope and expect, the Americans.

But the British know they will never again be safe without the United States. We know in America that Britain is our most forward defence base in the Atlantic, just as the Pacific islands must be used as a line of defence on the basis of such realities it ought to be possible to proceed, along with Russia and China, to build a mutual interest in preventing future aggression. But we don't need joint citizenship to do it.

Guns of the "K.G.5"

By WYNFORD VAUGHAN THOMAS, IN THE BBC BULLETIN

I saw the guns in action on board one of our greatest battleships, the King George the Fifth—everybody in the navy calls her the K.G.5.

It was dawn when we slipped out of the anchorage for the firing range. We picked up our destroyer screen as we cleared the headlands, and all the way out we were at work on board getting ready for action.

When a battleship fires her big guns all sorts of precautions have to be taken—curious precautions some of them are, too. Every scuttle has to be battened down, every door above the main deck has to be taken off its hinges, the cabin mirrors have to be wrapped up in bedclothes, in the ward-room the pictures are all taken down, and aboard the K.G.5. the ward-room stewards even removed the ash-trays, four kittens. Down they had to go, in a specially padded box, to the safety of the sick-bay.

The blast from those huge 14" guns is a very serious factor you've got to reckon with on board. After all, wherever you go on the ship you're not very far away from them. So before they are fired everyone (if he hasn't a job to do) is ordered below deck. If you've got a job to do—signal markings, air defence, or on the bridge—then you've got to wear ear-plugs or cotton wool. If you don't, you run the danger of splitting your eardrums, especially if the guns are firing on a marked bearing.

I watched the exercise from the air defence position high up on the bridge superstructure. The whole ship was below me. I could look forward to where the bows were cutting through the rippling sea—watch the spray come hissing in over the turrets and then watch the forward turrets slowly swing until all the six great grey guns were pointing to port. They weigh over 1,000 tons apiece those turrets, more than the weight of a small destroyer, yet they were turned under the control of one man, the Gunnery Officer, and a team of ratings were sitting over their complicated instruments (some of them new and highly secret, too) in the control room, deep down in the Director Control Tower, just above me, the nerve centre of the ship in action.

From the D.C.T., one man, by pressing a small trigger, can fire the whole of the ship's broadside. Everyone of the guns is given a shooting together, every shell they shoot weighing over three-quarters of a ton. A terrific power concentrated in the hands of one man.

Now, looking forward, I could see those guns lifting, higher, higher. They steady themselves. And then suddenly—Fire! A great searing flash of yellow flame seemed to leap out from the ship's side. I felt as if I'd received a violent push in the chest—the air was filled with the acrid smell of burning cordite, fumes that went drifting over the lee side.

And—as for the sound! Well, if you take the massed drums of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and mix them with the sound of a hundred-foot wall collapsing in the ruins, you might get somewhere near it. It goes rolling away over the grey waters.

Then in the silence that seems doubly silent you watch for the fall of the shot. Those shells may be travelling ten, fifteen miles. And then after what seems an endless time to fall. Then, away on the very horizon, tiny fountains leap up. Your salvo has fallen, and, when you hear some of the gunnery officers on board the K.G.5 discussing the cause of the shark, you can thank your stars that you're not at the receiving end of that salvo.

Yes, there's no doubt about it the Royal Navy's got the guns.

We are building an armed force of record size in record time, not because somebody wants to, but because the facts indicate clearly that we need it to do the job.—U.S. Manpower Director Paul V McNutt.

In writing off the African war, it is worth noting that, as Rommel's retreat from El Alamein, the war was a series of attempted invasions of Egypt from the west. Invasions of Egypt are one of the stand-bys of the conqueror's trade. With one or two exceptions, all of the Greek & conquerors since Cyrus the Persian have invaded Egypt, and the custom of taking an Egyptian queen in the conqueror's lodge began with Cambyses, the son of Cyrus. Long before that, minor league conquerors from Arabia, Syria and perhaps Central Asia invaded Egypt, and some took it.

Perhaps it is too much to say that the deepest, most tender thoughts of man must forever go unspoken. But few indeed are those who say the things they feel most deeply. For them expression takes a subtler course than words. Fleetingly in the delicate scent of flowers . . . lastingly in the deathless fire of the diamond ring placed upon her finger.

Axis-Held Countries Having Common Boundaries With Germany (Cont'd)

(c) Nowhere has the enemy built stronger defences and in no place has he made more thorough preparations than on this western front. One did not need the action against Dieppe to realize this. The fact that repeated commando raids have been made against the French coast, and that one of them, the raid against Saint Nazaire in 1941, was especially successful, forewarned the Germans, who have always been over-industrious in the building of defences. Today no further reconnaissance is needed to prove that everywhere, between the north end of the Zuider Zee in Holland and the mouth of the Seine, the continental coast represents a line of the strongest fortifications that modern technique can build. The important ports of Cherbourg and Brest, although more distant from the English coast, have also been converted into fortresses. However, the coast in its whole extension is too long to be so heavily fortified throughout. There must necessarily be weaker spots, but it would be dangerous to find them through commando reconnaissance because each action would warn the enemy anew and induce him to increase his defensive efforts.

Defences along the Danish coast must be expected to be identical in type and size to those of the German northeastern coast itself. The peninsulas and islands—the latter converted into powerful fortifications before the war—make any surprise attack against the mainland impossible. Besides, the waters along this coast are heavily mined and thoroughly patrolled by naval units and the Luftwaffe.

Denmark today has become a German province, at least for the duration, and while an Allied attack against Norway might not be fought to the end by Germany, an invasion of Denmark would be considered the same as an invasion of Germany proper. The distance of three hundred miles from the English coast is not excessively large, the same as to southern Norway. But in the case of Norway the Germans would themselves have to bring supplies and reserves across the sea, while in Denmark they can rely on land transport and can use the whole country for supply bases and airports.

The same situation prevails along the German coast, in Schleswig-Holstein, at the mouths of the Elbe and the Weser, in Helgoland Bay, and in the westernmost coastal province of Oldenburg. The latter is completely protected by the East Frisian Islands. Deep mine fields, numerous powerful coastal batteries and an intensive coastal patrol would make an invasion here almost impossible.

HEAVILY GARRISONED

German defences in northern Holland will again be similar to those in Denmark and northwestern Germany. It is logical that from here westward to Brittany the size and quality of defences are proportional to the distance of the different sectors from the English south coast. They will be strongest in southern Holland but strong along the Belgian coast, in the Straits of Dover, and in the easternmost part of the English channel. The western part of the Channel coast also will be heavily garrisoned and fortified, but not to the same extent as the sector immediately east and west of Cape Gris-Nez which lies between Calais and Boulogne and is the point nearest to the English coast. The French west coast, because of its great distance from England, provides a fair protection against surprise attacks and is probably less strongly organized for defence. The large bases such as Lorient and Saint-Nazaire are exceptions. Nantes, at the south of the Loire, lies about three hundred miles from the English south coast, and any attempts at an invasion of the coast south of Nantes would therefore meet with great difficulties.

Hitler cannot afford to take any risks in France and will always have numerous crack divisions in that country. It must not be forgotten that during the last war Germany, which then had a much smaller army, fewer allies, and certainly less initial superiority in arms, was able to conduct a two-front war, and, while fighting violently in the west against an adversary who did not then have to cross the sea, managed to beat the Russians and dictate peace to them while launching large and partly successful attacks against the Allies. This time the Germans have an advantage in fighting from land bases that have been strongly fortified for several years, while the Allies must bring every man and every gun across the Channel. Only since the Allies attained superiority in the air has an attack on France become a possibility.

Conclusions: The western front is the only logical target for a decisive attack. On its flanks it possesses natural obstacles inherent in the long distance from Allied bases in its centre, where these distances are favorable for the invader, the enemy's fortifications and troop concentrations are bound to be strong. Still the attempt can be made. A foothold on the Continent justifies any amount of sacrifices if it can be expected that a permanent success will be secured. It would be criminal to offer an invasion along this front at a half measure and with secondary objectives in mind. The sacrifices involved are justified only in connection with a vital purpose. Parts of this front may be considered for feint attacks, but it must be kept in mind that such feint attacks will achieve their purpose only if they take place far from the real objectives, so that they force the enemy to disperse his reserves and thus relieve the sectors chosen for decisive attacks.

FORMIDABLE ADVANTAGES

On this western front the defending force will have formidable advantages. The first line of obstacles which lie in the way of the invader is formed by the sea itself and by dense mine fields. In certain regions miles of high, steep rocks will form a second barrier. Then deep echelons of barbed-wire defences, land mines, tank traps, and concrete machine-gun nests bristling all these obstacles which lie in these obstacles must be overcome.

Only after having overcome a system of these obstacles will the attacker come up against the real fortifications, constructed with ample use of concrete and giving a maximum of protection to the men defending them. No air reconnaissance is required to prove the existence of these fortifications, but reconnaissance and information will be more necessary for this sector than anywhere else because knowledge of even the smallest detail is of vital importance.

But even where air photos do not show such obstacles and fortifications, which will be carefully camouflaged, we can be sure that they exist. We must assume that the brilliant raid on Dieppe had strategic reasons that have not been made public other than simply reconnaissance and the destruction of certain installations. These two objectives alone would not have justified the British troops, merely showing what they could do, such as landing tanks and other heavy weapons and the better part of a division in one small sector. This forewarning could only instigate the enemy to increase his vigilance, to reinforce his first-line troops and his reserves, and to improve his fortifications all along the French coast. The Germans learned a more important lesson from this raid than did the British troops who expected a maximum of resistance and preparation. If a powerful defence organization did not previously exist along the western front, the raid on Dieppe would certainly have led to it. This action was bound to increase considerably the defences that a future invasion against the European continent will have to meet. One day we shall know what the real objectives of the Dieppe raid were.

STRONG RESERVES

The Germans must have strong reserves behind this entire front. At the slightest sign of a threatening attack on any part of it they will draw on every other front, taking risks everywhere else rather than on the west coast, risks that might be fatal. Once an Allied landing has been achieved—and it must not be forgotten that the heroic Dieppe forces stayed on land for nine hours — the enemy will pay any price to drive the successful invaders back into the sea.

Any initial successes at this point should not rouse too much optimism, though they would represent a favorable beginning. The whole weight of the enemy's forces will be felt only some time after such successes have been gained. The frequent switching over of attacks from one sector to another, the use of feint attacks, and efficient timing of all such partial operations will play an outstanding part in any plan for an invasion of the western front. Important results can be reached only if an attack against this front is closely co-ordinated with offensive actions on other fronts in every single theatre of the war.

Geostrategic Analysis—Comprehensive Review

The starting point for our survey was the present situation in the different theatres of war. We have seen that any changes can greatly influence the plans and prospects for a future invasion. It would be impossible to deal in detail with all possible variations. For instance, if Turkey were to be drawn into the war it would immediately become one of the most promising bases for future Allied attacks; if southern Italy were in Allied hands, the Adriatic Sea and the west coast of Greece, as well as the Albanian and Yugoslavian coasts, would gain new significance. It is clear that we can do nothing more than mention these possibilities in a very general way.

DECISIVE PROGRESS

The only developments which could lead to decisive progress in the conduct of the war are: (1) the gaining of a foothold on the European west coast, preferably its central or northern part; (2) in the event that Turkey should be involved in the war, the opening of a new front against Macedonia, Thrace, Bulgaria and Rumania, and (3) to a minor degree, an occupation of part of the east coast of southern Italy in order to gain Adriatic bases and thus force the Germans to deplete other fronts for the reinforcement of their own Adriatic positions.

Other objectives cannot be considered vital, and attacks for their attainment could be used only as diverting operations within the frame of a large-scale plan for an all-out offensive.

Our analysis, however, has shown that the enemy would be able to concentrate large reserves at the endangered points, reserves which as in the central part of the western front, would be near the coast or which, as in the case of Norway Greece, or the Adriatic coast, could be brought up from a distance within a reasonable time and could thus frustrate any initial success which the invader may have gained. Consequently no single isolated attack against any of these countries can bring results adequate enough to compensate for the terrific punishment which would be taken. In addition, failure would mean a defeat with much more than local consequences, because any attack would reveal extremely valuable information to the enemy and would give him many lessons in methods, and above all a new stimulus to improve his defences.

We must therefore come to the conclusion that we should not expect any limited attack against any one of the countries which we have analysed. We must hope and wait for one large-scale attack, directed against so many sectors simultaneously that the enemy will be deprived of the opportunity to shift reserves to every critical point but will be compelled instead to spread his forces thinly, particularly his air force, over the widest possible area. .

Britain Rates Canadian Food On High Plane

Canadian food products being sent to Britain were rated as amongst the highest there, G. R. Paterson, Canadian animal produce trade commissioner, department of trade and commerce, London, England, told a gathering of Rotarians and farmers who met at the Macdonald hotel Thursday.

He specifically mentioned eggs, bacon and cheese, and said Canadians also may come into the picture so far as beef is concerned.

Milk production today was up, and there was more milk consumed by everyone than ever before. On the average, health is better there.

MEAT DOWN

Meat production was down, hogs as much as 50 per cent. Meat was rationed to 18 ounces a week, equal to about 26 cents worth, including bone. There was less when good cuts were purchased, and more if a poorer quality was obtained. Bacon was rationed to four ounces a week—enough for three meals providing there was not too much fat. He asked his listeners to remember that fact when finishing off their animals.

In Europe, cattle had been reduced by from 80 to 90 per cent; horses, about 20 per cent. It would be necessary to supply those nations with cereals, meat, milk, and dairy products. Depleted stocks will have to be replaced. He thought that many of the farmers would be going in for mechanized farming.

Production was increased in the British Isles because of the shortages of cereals and bulky foods. Since the war began, between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 acres had been added to the arable lands. Production of wheat had been doubled, oats more than 500 per cent, and barley and sugar beet production increased, making the island practically self-supporting now.

FORECASTS REDUCTION

Mr. Paterson said he believed there would be a reduction of arable land after the war, together with the quantity of wheat and cereals raised, because of the expense. He thought there would be a considerable increase in dairy herds, as previously there had not been a great deal of milk consumed.

14 VISITORS

Fourteen visitors were introduced to the gathering, and represented Pennsylvania, Utah, Ontario, Manitoba, British Columbia and Alberta. Youngest of these was Art Jeffrey, 17-year-old tennis champion of B.C., and son of Stan Jeffrey, head of the purchasing committee in Edmonton. The youth, winner of every junior title in singles, doubles and mixed doubles in the coast province, also the winner of the senior singles in B.C. last year, was given a big hand.

Musical entertainment was provided by Pauline Brady, soloist, with Jack Toulson at the piano.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

SECRETARY BILL HARRIS must have caught at least a fleeting glimpse of blue sky on the horizon Thursday evening for he confirmed the fact that the U.S. Army and Arrows would play their senior ball game at Renfrew Park tonight.

Whether or not the 7 o'clock starting time has had anything to do with the recent extraordinary antics of the weather is hard to determine, but the fact remains that since the change from 6.30 was announced not a single league fixture has come off. Even last Sunday's affair had to be set over.

Five postponements have been the toll to date. Dodgers and Hornets are billed to play on Saturday night, and on Sunday afternoon the Yanks and Hornets will meet for the third time, each having a win in the bag so far. It is rumored that in addition to the game a special attraction is being arranged for the fans for Sunday.

IT'S Mayfair versus Highlands in the lower half of the championship flight draw. And whoever survives in the upper brackets can be assured of tough opposition in the final for the city golf title, as both Glenn Gray and Burns Martell are toting a very potent set of clubs these days.

As a result of the last night's games the final bracket for the lower half of the consolation lies between Mike Zeweniuk of Municipal and Helmuth Goertz of Country Club. B. Webster is already in the semi-final for the top half and is waiting for the winner of the Capt. H. Bell-W. C. Richards match which is to be played today.

In the top half of the championship flight, the winner of Henry Martell-Johnny Aitken plays the survivor of Emil Martell-AC2 Bill McAlpine for the other berth in the city final. All semi-final games are to be played out tomorrow and the finals in all four flights will be settled on Sunday.

THAT GLAMOR LEAGUE

A VERY thoughtful fastball fan in the city has forwarded to this department a copy of the Kenosha, Wis. "News" showing the ad in connection with an All-American Girls Softball League series with South Bend.

However, aside from the fact that of the ad being a very snappy affair and including a pep talk on "boosting morale and providing the finest recreation for the home front . . . they're the top players in the country . . . see the professional champions play", etc., the admission charges form perhaps the most interesting item.

But then 65c, children 35c (tax included), may not be too much after all to "watch the girls play ball," for "they're smart; they're speedy! they're sensational!"

Incidentally, Helen Nicol, pitcher for the Kenosha team and former member of the Army and Navy Pats here, won seven out of her first nine games. Nice going, Helen!

Senators Lead in Majors With Total 64 Stolen Bases

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—Maybe the Washington Senators were moving too fast for the guy who first billed St. Louis Cardinals as the "runningest" outfit in baseball.

The Senators not only topped the Cards' much-headlined stolen-base performance of last year and at this writing have about six times as many as the National League bosses for 1942, but they even have Bob Johnson and Alex Kampouris going out after those steals. And that, as one press box man put it, when he saw Johnson jump into second during the recent Nats-Yanks series, is larceny.

Anyway, the Senators have a neat record of 64 bases stolen in 80 attempts up to this writing, for an .800 average, and just by way of pointing out that this is really par for the course, it might be recalled that the year Ty Cobb set his all-time major league high in 1915, his percentage was only .567—96 steals in 134 tries.

The whole Washington outfit is running wild. It's one of the big reasons the Senators are actually breathing down the Yankees' backs in the American League race.

You talk to Washington baseball men, and they tell you Clyde Milan has put the gunpowder in the Senators' shoes and pulled the trigger. Clyde's the square little man, you remember, who once was the big league base stealing king, with the 88 he chalked up in 1912.

"Clyde has shown some of these youngsters how to run," one Washington baseball writer pointed out. "You can't give the Senators an inch this year. They'll break for any base any time."

Manager

Jimmy Smith, who for 25 years has been manager of the Dominion Day celebration will again act in that capacity for the annual event being staged next Thursday under the auspices of the South Side Business Men's Association.

Gray, B. Martell Secure Berths in Golf Semi-Final

As a result of matches played at the Highlands on Thursday evening two semi-finalists in the championship flight and three in the consolation have been declared in city golf tournament.

Glenn Gray, of Mayfair defeated Vern Mohs, Municipal, on the 18th hole two up and Burns Martell, Highlands won from Bobby Carse, Country Club, four and three on the 18th to advance into the championship semi-final round.

Games in the upper half of the draw are being played today. Henry Martell, Highlands opposes John Aitken, Mayfair, and Emil Martell, Highlands, plays AC2 Bill McAlpine, of Vancouver.

In the Consolation Flight B, Webster beat Angus Barton on the 18th, but H. Goertz had to go to the 20th before eliminating Walter Ewenson, Sr. Mike Zeweniuk halted Art Boyce on the 18th.

The remaining game in the Consolation to complete the semi-final brackets will be played today, when Capt. H. Bell meets W. C. Richards.

Vancouver Jockey Figures in Six Hamilton Races

HAMILTON, Ont., June 25.—(CP)—Jockey Hedley Woodhouse of Vancouver, who usually rides for W. G. Irvine of Vancouver, attracted considerable attention through his ability to bring home winners at four racing meets at Toronto and yesterday added further laurels to his name. He figured in six events at the opening meet at the Hamilton Jockey Club.

Woodhouse notched three firsts and a second place in the first four races and added another winner and a third place in the last three races. He missed out in the sixth race.

Palmera paid off $11.80 for first place in the fifth race while Light Jos paid $3.50 for third place in the nightcap.

He was astride Koraline, Brodear and Hi Brier in the first, second and fourth, and booted Pacific Maid into place spot in the third.

Daily Double of Koraline and Brodear—former third in the betting, latter starting at less than even money—paid a paltry $11.90.

Koraline led Northswept paid only $3.50 to win, with Trevelyen and Sky Runner also entering the money.

War Problem copped the third event, from Pacific Maid and Flying Pretty. Straight tickets were worth $14.90. Birley was up on the winner.

Fourth event went to Hi Brier at $10.30, Ucha and Cease Fire trailing.

Senator Abbe's Mark 1:58¾

Whirlaway of Harness World Cost Gilmour Only $3,500

W. Ellis Gilmour has Senator Abbe 1.58¾ take a bow.

By JOHNNY JONES

SARATOGA SPRINGS, June 25—It was W. Ellis Gilmour's lucky day last spring when Ote Lowen, Ohio breeder, crainer and driver of the one-horse stable, Senator Abbe, decided to part with his prize pacing gelding, give up the harness game and settle down to married life.

Frank Woodland, veteran handicapper of Bloomingburg, a whistle stop in Ohio, who made up the classified races for Saratoga's night-blooming dashes, grabbed an option on Senator Abbe, son of the muscular 5-year-old son of Bert Abbe-Romola to Gilmour two days later. The price was $3,500.

Gilmour is president of the Saratoga Raceway.

Gilmour turned Senator Abbe over to retund little Wayne Smart, a third Ohioan. Thus, Senator Abbe joined the stable of Milestone, holder of four world records, and Hot Feet, fastest 4-year-old pacer of 1942.

All the Smart-Senator Abbe combination did from there on was capture 21 straight heats. Smart and the Senator cleaned up against the best at Goshen, N.Y.; Stoneboro, Pa.; Carthage and Lancaster, O.; and in the Lexington, Ky., Trots, where the standardbred did a mile in 1.58¾ taking the Reynolds Pacing Stake by seven lengths.

That was the year's fastest harness mile for 42, tied Billy Direct's world race record.

Senator Abbe put an end to the domination of older pacers by Little Pat, 4-year-old flyer which had enough left to hang up a half-mile track record last September.

"I saw Billy Direct set the world mark of 1.58¾ for pacers in a race in Lexington," says Gilmour. "Vic Fleming whipped him right to the wire. The Senator could have gone a full second faster had he been pressed."

Billy Direct's world mark of 1.55, the swiftest ever done in harness, was against the clock, not under racing conditions.

PACES OWNER TO RECORD

The Senator copped 10 straight at 3. He lost one tune-up race at 4, when he captured the coveted Ohio Pacing Derby in 2.01 the first time he saw a mile track.

At 5, his campaign opened with a tune-up setback over Goshen's half-miler, but Paul Vineyard, which beat him, turned in 2.05½, the fastest time of the meeting.

With Gilmour in the sulky last fall at Warrenburg, a bumpy half-miler in northern New York, Senator Abbe, paced by two horses, each going half the distance, negotiated the mile in 2.04, four seconds faster than any steed ever travelled on that strip.

W. E. Gilmour definitely decided to keep Senator Abbe, the Whirlaway of the sulky world, the pacer of the year and the fastest harness horse of '42.

Dodgers Beaten by Giants

Cardinals Hold Leadership With 5-1 Victory Over Reds

CINCINNATI, June 25.—(AP)—Coming back strongly after their 8-3 defeat Wednesday, St. Louis Cardinals won handily from Cincinnati Reds 5-1 in a morning "swing-shift" game yesterday.

It was Harry Gumbert's second straight victory over Bucky Walters in 10 days.

At Least Ten Service Units To Take Part

A BIG inter-allied service track and field meet with at least 10 units competing, will feature the 51st annual Dominion Day celebration being held under the auspices of the South Side Business Men's Association next Thursday.

As usual the event will be staged at the South Side Athletic Grounds and the athletic end of the program will start at 2 p.m. The march past is scheduled for 1:45 and it is expected that Brig.-Gen. L. D. Worsham, officer commanding U.S. Army Engineers will take the salute.

All athletes participating, each in the track colors of his own unit will take part in the march past.

Service units competing in the meet include U.S. Army, No. 2 A.O.S., No. 4 I.T.S., No. 3 "M" Depot, Navy, Edmonton Army, Camrose Army, Wetaskiwin Army, R.A.F., Penhold and No. 2 Wireless School, Calgary.

Jimmy Smith, who has managed the Dominion Day event for 25 years and who now resides at Sneden has returned to the city and takes charge of this year's celebration as usual.

There will be a two-night carnival—June 30 and July 1—at the corner of Whyte avenue and Main (104) street. To wind up the celebration there will be a free street dance on Thursday night with "Red" Gibbons' band in attendance.

Under the rules governing the track and field meet a competitor is limited to two events aside from the relays and tug-of-war. No station is allowed to enter more than two for any individual event.

The inter-allied sports service committee is desirous of securing as many entries as possible and for that reason the above restrictions are being imposed. Spikes will be barred.

In addition to the track and field events a 3-mile bike race is being included as an added attraction. This is the only open event of the program and any person, welther in the services or not, may enter.

R. R. McKillop is president of the South Side Business Men's Association and Charles S. Fisher, secretary-treasurer.

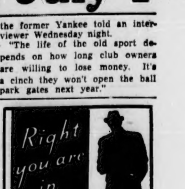

F.O. "Jake" Jamieson, of No. 3 "M" Depot acted as chairman of last night's meeting of the Inter-allied Service Sports committee. Lieut. John McMillan, of Camrose and Lieut. Bob Freese, of Wetaskiwin Basic Training Centre attended and the R.A.F. station at Penhold was also represented, as well as all other units taking part in the meet.

No Major Ball In 1944—Ruth

CLEVELAND, June 25.—(AP)—Major league baseball will become a war casualty in 1944—if not sooner—says Babe Ruth, home run king of the 20's and 30's.

"I have a hunch that baseball won't survive the current season," the former Yankee told an interviewer Wednesday night.

"The life of the old sport depends on how long club owners are willing to lose money. It's a cinch they won't open the ball park gates next year."

NEW YORK, June 25.—A little flag hung Thursday in the "memory corner" of a Pacific air base barracks for Lieut. Lou Zamperini and his dreams of future miles.

His mates hung the flag soon after Zamperini and his fellow crewmen of a Liberator bomber were reported missing nearly one month ago.

Details about Zamperini, champion collegiate miler, were received yesterday in a letter from Charles P. Arnot, a British United Press correspondent, in the Pacific. Arnot says:

"I find it difficult to write about Lou without slopping over. I knew him so well, and he was that kind of a fellow.

DAMAGED AIRCRAFT

"I'LL never forget how he looked and what he said the day he and his crew brought their big bomber home safely and made a dangerous crash landing after the raid on the Japanese base at Nauru Island. It was a miracle that the plane ever limped back because, by actual count, it carried more than 300 holes from Zero bullets and anti-aircraft shells. Zamperini and the plane's co-pilot, Lieut. C. H. Cupernell of Long Beach, Calif., administered first aid to five wounded crewmen while the pilot, Lieut. A. A. Phillips of Terre Haute, Ind., brought the bomber in.

"When Zamp stepped out of the battered plane, he stood there looking at it and shaking his head. Then he snapped his fingers and grinned wryly. Apparently he was thinking that an outfit which had come through such a session should survive the war.

"Leaving the plane, I suggested that he must have got a big kick out of the raid. Lou said that depended upon what I meant by a 'kick'. He said he never really enjoyed flying, but that he had gone into aviation because he figured he could be of most help in the war as a bombardier. He thought it was the thing to do. He explained. You go out on a mission, and before it's over, you swear it will be your last. But you go out again and again.'

GREAT RUNNER

"THEN Zamp amazed me by saying, 'It's almost the same with running. I never like particularly to run in competition, but I thought it was the thing to do because it would help me through school and also help my school. Running is great exercise, but competing with topnotch runners over a mile stretch is brutal. I used to tell myself after every race that I'd never compete again. But the next race I'd be back at the starting line.'

"Zamp was 26 when he turned up missing. But he dreamed of the day when the war would end and he could get back onto the track. Sitting one afternoon on his cot, as the sun beat down mercilessly on his tent, he said, 'There's plenty of miles left in these legs, and I'm hoping to land a place on some Olympic team. I can team if they hold intercallied meets after the war. Even if the war lasts another couple of years, I'll still be young enough to run.'

That's why the slender, muscular Italian from Torrance, Calif., always tried to keep himself in perfect physical condition. The inter-collegiate record holder has registered four minutes 8.3 seconds in 1938, was pointing for dream miles. But he didn't know it."

Army High Jump Record Equalled

PETAWAWA, Ont., June 25.—(CP)—An Ottawa athlete, Lieut. A. Purdy, tied the Canadian army high jump record of 5 feet 11 inches and smashed the all-Canadian army training centre mark of 5 feet 2 inches at a sports meet here Wednesday in which nearly 500 officers and men of the artillery training centre participated.

Purdy jumped 5 feet 10 inches. Second in this event was 2nd Lieut. W. N. Anderson of Saint John, N.B., and third place was taken by Gnr. H. Tirlecki of Hillcrest, Alta.

The winning team in the 880-yard relay included Lieut. W. J. Hogg of Winnipeg.

Sports . . . . Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—Sample of V (for van) mail: The other day Harry Markson, the Shakespeare of swat, was reading a letter from overseas . . . it said, nearly as we can recall: "We have formed a boxing club here and have bouts against the Australian soldiers. Our clubroom consists of the four walls of a tent, surrounded by the dense jungles of New Guinea. We would like some pictures of fights and fighters to hang on these walls" . . . that's just one of many, Harry remarked. "I get so many like it that sometimes when I need a picture to use myself I find we don't have any."

Another letter was directed to this dept. by Pte. Ray Stoffard of the Columbia, S.C. army air base . . . "I live in Williamson, W. Va., and it is strictly a Cincinnati fans' town,2 he reported. "Frank McCormick is and always will be tops for me as a baseball player . . . I wrote to Frank the other day and I received my biggest thrill when I received a letter from him and I showed it to everyone . . . I say to heave baseball men out of the Army to keep the game going."

Is it necessary to point out what conclusions can be drawn?

Polo Park Draws 6,000 Yesterday

WINNIPEG, June 25.—(CP)—Six thousand fans at Polo Park's fifth day Thursday were treated to almost an even break with favorites and long shots split the spoils.

Longest price of the day came in the sixth race when Ben Berrill, ridden by Jockey Russell, placed second to reduce $23.00 to place. Second longest shot was in the second race with Dewey Morn paying $23.40 to win.

There was quite a jump from the Daily Double, which paid $197.80 and the Quinella, which posted $16.80. Oddity of the Quinella was that Major S. who combined with Bib for the winning numbers paid $18.70 to win.

The Daily Double combination was Baid Shot in the first to Dewey Morn in the second.

Not So Tough in U.S.

Restrictions Confront Hunters

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(CP)—Sportsmen in the United States have only one obstacle to beat this year if they want to go hunting, in contrast to Canadians who have two almost impossible ones between them and their favorite pastime.

Government officials here yesterday said ammunition will be provided for hunters in the United States who can show a need for it, although they still won't be able to get any additional gasoline.

But even so, they are still one up on Canadians, who not only can't get gasoline but are also denied ammunition under any conditions.

However, hunting in the United States apparently will be on an "essential only" scale this year, as officials said present plans for letting out ammunition to sportsmen would see "that it goes to those who need it." They declined to say how distribution would be controlled.

With most ammunition dealers' shelves already bare, the war production board stepped in nearly two months ago to protect the remaining supplies on the market with an order sharply limiting sales and requiring authorizations to make purchases.

The limitation order set up quotas—25 shotgun shells each quarter, for instance—for "essential civilian users," including defence plant guards, other law enforcement officers, farmers and ranchers who get authorizations automatically.

All others seeking authorizations are requested to show essential need, and W.P.B. hasn't considered recreational hunting in that category.

Cleveland and Buffalo Seeking Berths in N.H.L.

TORONTO, June 25.—(CP)—The evening Telegram said Thursday that Buffalo and Cleveland will be represented by teams in the National Hockey League next season —if the N.H.L. operates.

The story said Al Sutphin, owner of the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, soon will go to Victoria to confer with Mervin (Red) Dutton, acting president of the N.H.L. and Lester Patrick of New York Rangers.

Frank Selke of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the N.H.L. said he had talked with Sutphin and that the Cleveland owner seems certain to seek an N.H.L. berth. Officials of the Buffalo club in the A.H.L. also are interested, Selke said.

The Telegram said it is rumored that the owner of the Buffalo club is considering sale of his interest and those interested in purchasing the club want major league rating.

WINNIPEG, June 25.—(CP)—Sgt. Melvin (Fritzy) Hanson, who sparked Winnipeg Blue Bombers to dominion rugby football championships in 1935 and 1941, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Canadian (Active) Army.

Unbeaten Phoenix Wins Irish Derby

DUBLIN, June 25.—(AP)—Kirk's unbeaten three-year-old champion, the Phoenix, won the mile-and-a-half Irish Derby yesterday at the Curragh.

Favorite at 5 to 2, F. S. Myerscough's colt, piloted by Joe Canty, came home a length in front of Joseph McGrath's Solar Prince as he added the Derby, valued at 2,000 sovereigns, to his triumph in the 2,000 guineas a month ago. J. McVay's Solferino was third, another two lengths farther back.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Merrick Drug Stores or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk bad at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money

Chicago Grains Make Advance

CHICAGO, June 25—(AP)—A strong buying movement entered grain pits today and prices spurted as much as 2 cents in oats. Wheat and rye were up more than a cent. Reports ceiling prices on corn might be raised spurred the upturn.

Action of the war food administration in requisitioning corn in commercial elevators was coupled with an order from the exchange's directors requiring settlement of all outstanding corn contracts at ceilings and prohibiting any further trading in the yellow grain.

Wheat closed 2⅛-2½ cents higher, corn was unchanged at ceilings, oats closed 2¾-3¼ cents higher, July 68¼-⅛ and rye was up 2¼-2⅝.

CLOSE—

Wheat: July 1.44, Sept. 1.44⅜-¼, Dec 1.46⅛-1.46.

Corn: July 1.05b, Sept. 1.05b, Dec 1.01b.

Oats: July 68¼-⅛, Sept. 67⅛-67, Dec. 67⅞-¾.

Rye: July 97¼, Sept. 99⅜-½, Dec. 1.02⅜-½.

Cash wheat: No. 1 hard, 1 45¼; corn, sample grade yellow, 1.03½-1.04; oats, No. 1 mixed, 69¼; barley, malting, 1.06-15N.

Futures Higher In Winnipeg Pit

WINNIPEG, June 25—(CP)—Wheat futures closed ¾-⅞ cent a bushel higher today on Winnipeg grain exchange in a moderately active session. July finished at $1 00½.

Buying during the trading session was credited to American interests and locals. Export business in Canadian wheat was confirmed with 560,000 bushels of No. 2 Northern taken for Red Cross relief purposes in Greece.

Trade was light in the cash wheat market with sales restricted to odd cars. Shippers and exporters made purchases of higher grades at spreads ranging 1 to ⅛ cent lower. A few cars of cash oats and barley were reported to have changed hands.

Local spreading operations were prominent in rye futures which worked higher in sympathy with advances in Chicago. Oats and barley were bid at ceiling levels with no trades posted.

Country marketings amounted to 862,000 bushels yesterday compared to 389,000 last year.

Outlook Reviewed

Wheat for Livestock Feed Outstanding in Crop Year

OTTAWA, June 25.—(CP)—The use of wheat for animal feeding will "probably be written down as one of the outstanding events of the crop year 1942-43 now drawing to a close," the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said yesterday.

"Both Canada and the United States, by turning their abundant wheat surpluses over to livestock, have not only made possible the greater production of livestock and poultry products so essential to the war effort, but by doing so they have disposed of more wheat than it might have been possible to dispose of if the markets of Europe had been open to them under conditions as they existed in the few years immediately preceding the outbreak of war," said the bureau's monthly review of the wheat situation.

Current estimates of the amount of wheat fed or likely to be fed to livestock and poultry during the present crop year were placed in the neighborhood of 445,000,000 bushels. Of this amount, Canada was expected to seed about 90,000,000 bushels and the United States approximately 355,000,000.

EXCEEDS IMPORTS

"Such a quantity of wheat is more than the average annual net imports of European countries, including the British Isles, during the five years before the war, and is a new high in the farm utilization of wheat in North America," the bureau said.

But despite this feeding of wheat to animals the wheat carryover in Canada and the United States, to be added to the 1943 harvest, would be about 1,200,000,000 bushels. At the beginning of the new international crop year on Aug. 1, it was estimated, another 400,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat would be held in Argentina and Australia.

This would mean a total carryover of 1,600,000,000 bushels in the hands of the "big four' at the beginning of the new crop year, an amount equal to the average annual production of wheat in continental Europe, except Russia, in the five years 1934-38.

"From these figures it will be seen that the immediate wheat supply situation does not spell shortage, but having regard for the quantities of feed grain required for the high production objectives in livestock and poultry products, and the possibility of relief shipments to territories wrested from the enemy in the next year, the size of the 1943 harvest, at least in North America, will have a very important bearing on the supply outlook for the crop year 1943-44," the bureau said.

GOOD RESPONSE

"Farmers in Canada and the United States have responded well to the food production programs suggested of them and the animal population in both countries has increased enormously, thereby expanding the need for feed grains.

"Present crop prospects in North America are less favorable than in 1942. The wheat crop in the United States, judged by conditions on June 1, is officially estimated at 370,000,000 bushels or 791,000,000 less than the 1942 harvest.

"It is much too soon to even hazard a guess at the size of the Canadian wheat crop this year, but in view of the sharp reduction in acreage and the lateness of the season it can hardly be expected to challenge the record crop of 1942."

South Crops Suffer Lack Of Moisture

While heavy rains have been general in the north and central areas of Alberta, moisture conditions in the southern part of the province are critical, Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture, says in a regular crop report, released Friday.

In these southern areas, the amount of rainfall for the last two weeks has ranged from 50 to 90 per cent below normal, Mr. MacMillan says. In the areas around Medicine Hat, Empress, and Lethbridge, the lack of rain is most noted. At Medicine Hat, where a total of 4.03 inches of rainfall should have been recorded since April 1, a total of 1.16 inches has fallen.

GROWTH RETARDED

"Wet, cool conditions have retarded crop development in central and northern Alberta," note Mr. Mac Millan. "Most points report crops are not yet in the 'shot blade' state, and the wet weather has also resulted in a slowing down of summerfallow operations."

In respect to field crops, while a critical situation prevails in the south because of the lack of rain, in the central and northern areas of the province the prolonged rains have made warmer temperatures and sunshine necessary. Due to the lateness of seeding and the wet, cool weather, crops are on the average about two weeks behind in development. At Kinuso and High Prairie, field crops are beginning to suffer, due to a prolonged dry spell.

Slight frosts are reported from some parts of the province, but damage has not been noted as severe. Wireworm and cutworm damage is seen in certain areas.

"Generally speaking, livestock conditions are good," reports Mr. MacMillan. "Where precipitation has been favorable, the hay and pasture situation is good."

While a slight general increase shows in hogs marketed to date, the number is still 88,659 below figures for the same period in 1942, the minister reports. It is expected the marketings will increase in the next six months.

Livestock markets were active with little change in prices, best steers selling at $11.50 to $12.25 The hog market was steady, with B1 hogs $15.40, sows $12.40 dressed. Spring lamb prices at Edmonton and Calgary averaged $14 to $14.50.

Creamery butter production in May showed an increase of 10.4 per cent as compared with the May, 1942 figure, but cheddar cheese production continues to show a serious drop from the 1942 figure. The cheese figures are 41.8 per cent below 1942 for May, and 45.5 per cent below 1942 for the January-May period.

An increase in shipments to creameries is noticeable in the most intensive dairy centers, due to favorable pasture conditions. Peak marketings of milk and cream are expected around the middle of July.

British Student Flier Has Close Call in Collision

WINNIPEG, June 25.—(CP)—A British student pilot yesterday counted himself lucky after a mid-air crash near the R.A.F. school at Weyburn, Sask.

The pilot, LAC. C. Spikins, parachuted to safety when two Harvard training planes on a formation flight collided. He bailed out and landed without injury but the other pilot was killed when his plane crashed into a field.

Both airmen were members of No. 41 S.F.T.S., R.A.F., at Weyburn.

The next-of-kin of the dead pilot, also from overseas, have been notified and his name will be issued shortly, No. 2 Training Command, R.C.A.F., announced here.

Before The Magistrate

Ernest S. Logan, found guilty of illegal possession of liquor, was fined $20 and costs or 30 days, when he appeared before Magistrate Harold L. Hawe, K.C., in police court Thursday afternoon. Roy Annebo, for operating a motor vehicle at a rate of speed greater than 30 miles an hour, was assessed $15 and costs or 20 days. A fine of $5 and costs or seven days was imposed on Sydney W. Jones, found guilty of operating an auto over 25 miles an hour.

Case of William Ostashek, charged with assaulting Rose Gordichuk, said to be his common-law wife, was adjourned to the next sitting of the supreme court after the matter of title to land became involved. The accused was placed on bail of $500 on his own recognizance.

The charge of assault arose after the complainant returned from a holiday on June 20 to find the door of her rooms locked. She spent the night with a friend and the following day the two returned to the rooms, when the bolt on the door was released and they walked in.

On the arrival of Ostashek, she was asked who let her in and was told to get out. She contended it was her home. The accused had then taken her by the arms and pushed her and her trunk into the hallway and closed the door.

A second witness told the court of being with the complainant in the rooms when the accused returned. He had thrown complainant out, then the trunk, and then he threw her out, the witness stated.

A. McCallum, license inspector, told the court that a license for the operation of the rooming house had been issued in the name of Mrs. R. Ostashek, and also a certificate.

Andrew Pfeifle, charged with dangerous driving, to which charge he had previously entered a plea of not guilty, was adjourned to July 26 after the plea was allowed withdrawn and plea reserved. The court was told that the main witness was in hospital, and would be there for some time.

Addresses Convention

Minister Stresses Need Of Determined Efforts For Municipal Progress

Reviewing municipal problems of taxation and social services, Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs, in an address to the 39th annual convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities Thursday, stressed the necessity of bending all efforts toward the task of finding ways for continued progress regardless of obstacles.

"My way," he said, "shall be to find a way, or method to do things instead of a reason to prevent doing them. It is my conviction that if we look for ways to get things done, those ways can be found just as truly as if we look for obstacles."

"I feel sure," began Mr. Gerhart, "that you will not expect me on such short notice to give you a solution to your problems. I am much impressed with the worthy work done by the organization. You as members of this union are civic employees who give thought to the problems besetting the municipalities of the province and by constructive suggestions and analysis of problems and inequalities try to improve conditions for the taxpayers.

"Your association has worthy objectives and every town, village and municipality should have representation here. There are great benefits to be gained by pooling your knowledge."

OUTLINES VIEWPOINT

Mr. Gerhart continued "My viewpoint as past mayor of Coronation would have been and still is the same as yours. It has been a source of wonder to me for a long time that the department of municipal affairs and the provincial government did not immediately adopt the recommendations that were made at such conventions as these. In my new position I am about to find out what those reasons are. The municipal districts are the very base of self-government; there the ideas must originate regarding the revision of existing taxes; the addition of others and the abolition of some that may have become obsolete with the passage of time.

"It is the sum of our experience, its organization, its resolving, its negotiations, its compromise that allows us to make progress."

Mr. Gerhart reviewed the problems faced by him as mayor of Coronation and the accomplishments of that town during its history. "One of the biggest problems of the governing bodies of the municipalities is the matter of getting money and giving in return decent and necessary social services. In Coronation we made every piece of property in town revenue producing. In the matter of collecting arrears in taxes we should remember that people have more money now for various reasons and such arrears can be collected.

PERIOD OF INFLATION

"We are already in a period of inflation of which our taxpayers should take advantage. If and when you have without force or provocation increased your revenue from the collection of arrears set it aside as a reserve. Buy bonds. I am not advocating that you buy a bond with somebody else's money, but if your liabilities are paid up make this your reserve.

"There is the argument in favor of reducing taxes and all other costs to allow people to buy Victory Bonds, but the same objective is accomplished if you buy the bond yourself with the reserve, and then you know that both you and the taxpayers have been patriotic and have made contributions to the war effort.

"I should like to leave one other thought with you," went on Mr. Gerhart. "After the last war for twenty-five years we fell into a state of pacifism and idealism and neglect of our responsibilities. This time we must remain alert. We must express our opinions; we must dare to stand up and speak out loud for those things we believe to be right. In this as in all things I am a democrat; I believe in the democratic way of life.

TWO RESPONSIBILITIES

"Our people," concluded Mr. Gerhart, "must be shown and taught even at this late date lest they lose it, that in a democracy they have two separate and distinct responsibilities, the responsibility of running their own business and the responsibility of administering the affairs of their town, their province and their country, and it seems to me the responsibility of us older people to educate from the platform at every opportunity these young people now leaving our high schools."

Municipalities Convention Delegates Obtain Picture Of World-Wide Activities

"We of our generation were born in the world of yesterday, we live in the world of today, and we must plan for the world of tomorrow." Walter Campbell, regional controller of the War Time Prices and Trade Board, stated in an address given to the 70 delegates of the 39th annual convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities Friday morning as the convention got under way for its final day's sitting.

Mr. Campbell reviewed briefly the world of yesterday, the forming of the Dominion of Canada, the building of the unifying railroads of Canada, the development of the natural resources of the country, and the policies of government followed in the years past.

"The isolation policy taken by the great nations of the world during the years of the depression in 1932 to 1937 could only result in one thing, war. The financial status of our country is an interesting problem for all. It is well to remember that an increase in currency is no solution to depression problems. It has no more to do with prosperity than a thermometer that goes up and down with the weather, it is an indication of prosperity or depression nothing else," he said.

"Who could have believed that this country could have produced and shipped what she has to the various nations of the world engaged in war. Who would have believed 35 years ago that the social legislation now on our statute books could be attained? Who of you who are close to the farmers of this province would have thought that the achievements in industrial implements and living conditions for them would be what it is today.

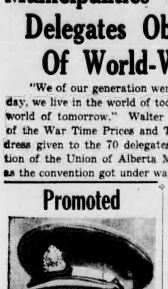

GREAT EXPANSION

"Our industry, whereby we transform our raw materials into products for human use, our commerce by which we transport our commodities have expanded unbelievably.

"What of the world today? The policies of isolation are gone never to return. We have arrived at the

THE QUESTION

What is your opinion of the inter-school war savings stamp sale competition?

THE ANSWERS

MRS. HELEN WATERHOUSE, housewife: It is a million dollar experiment in teaching children patriotism and thrift. It is an experiment to be commended.

MRS. PEARL BATES, housewife: I am glad that the school selling campaign is to be carried on through the holidays. The children buying stamps through the school terms gain a lively sense of their duty to their country. There should be no stop in this phase of the education in citizenship.

MRS. A. LITWINOW, housewife: The rivalry created by this competition should bear fruitful results in increased stamp sales. A competition of any type makes the children more keen to retain interest in the work.

Stamp Campaign Starting Monday

The city, town, and rural merchants throughout northern Alberta are rallying to the support of the "Stamp Out The U-Boat" campaign which officially opens throughout Canada next Monday. Campaign officials announced today that merchants are again eager to support to the limit the sale of stamps during the next five weeks.

As the co-operation of each merchant is solicited, he will be given a "stamp-o-gram" chart providing space for signatures of purchasers of 500 of stamps. With each dollar purchased the customer will be asked to sign his name and address on a "stamp-o-gram". This will be pasted onto the chart, and as soon as the chart is complete with 90 signatures, the merchant will submit the chart and proceeds to National War Finance Headquarters who in turn will forward the signatures to National Headquarters.

These 90 signatures will represent the purchase of one depth charge and will be included with the depth charge as it is shipped overseas. Each "stamp-o-gram" conveys a message to the Grand Admiral of the German Navy, such as "Here's a can opener for one of your killers".

2 Are Charged Being Absent Military Duty

J. Barker, and A. M. Kinsman, members of the 2nd (R) Battalion Edmonton Regiment, charged with having failed to attend parade on June 3, thus committing a breach of the Militia Act, were remanded to June 28 by Magistrate A. L. Miller, K.C., in police court Friday morning.

The crown was satisfied, the court was told, that the first accused, Barker, was not 18 years old, although an affidavit signed by him at the time of his enlistment showed him to be 18 years old.

Asked by the Magistrate how old he was, the accused stated he was 17 years old on June 17. He had told authorities he was only 17 when he enlisted, he averred.

The case, said Mr. Miller, should have been ready to go. He was going to deal with it one way or the other, he added, as he adjourned it till Monday next.

The charge against Kinsman was also granied an adjournment to that day.

A certificate, stated by Kinsman to be his own, showed his age as being 17, the court was told. Mr. Miller warned that it would be the final adjournment.

Alberta Cadets Going to Camp Next Thursday

Three Youths Said Involved Theft of Trays

Between 60 and 75 trays, stolen from chicken cages stored near a city packing plant during the last three or four months, and reported to city police Thursday afternoon, were recovered a few hours after the complaint was laid.

Three boys, whose ages range from nine to 14 years, were said to have been involved in the thefts. Value of the trays was given as being $1 each, while the cages from which they were taken, were valued at $100 each.

The trays, which the packing plant stated were not replacable at this time, were of 20-gauge mesh wire, measuring two feet by three feet, and others two feet by six feet. The cages from which they were taken stood inside a high-fenced corral.

A search of the vicinity south of the packing plant was made and results in locating 36 of the trays in some chicken pens, and a rabbit hutch at the rear of a 64 street residence. A total of 60 trays in the house 16 more trays were found.

BROUGHT TRAYS HOME

Officers were told by the mother of a 14-year-old boy that her son had brought the trays home. Another youth admitted being in company with the 14-year-old boy when the articles were stolen. Three more trays were recovered at the home of a 65 street resident, where a nine-year-old boy stated that they had been given to him by the 14-year-old.

A total of 60 trays were identified as at the property of the packing plant, which sent a truck to collect them after police ordered the parents of the boys to disgorge the loot.

Several packing boxes, reportedly stolen from the same packing plant in April, were traced to the home of the older lad, at which time he was warned to keep strictly away from those premises, it was stated in a police report.

Summer School Opens July 5th At University

Summer school of the Alberta department of education begins Friday, July 2, Dr. H. C. Newland, supervisor of schools, announced Friday. On that day, and on July 3, registration of students is to be undertaken, and studies will commence on Monday, July 5.

A serious teacher shortage has struck the Alberta teaching program, and officials hope that the summer courses will qualify many students for high school work in the coming year.

It was announced by the department of education that attendance at the summer school sessions, plus certain prerequisites, would enable students to teach in high schools for the 1945-44 year, and finish their training for complete certification at the 1944 summer session.

Attendance at the summer school by those whose first class teaching certificates have expired or lapsed, but whose certificates will be reinstated, department officials have pointed out. The same applies to second class certificates, or certificates of a higher grade.

Music Gaining In West Canada Authority Says

Conducting examinations for Trinity College of Music throughout Canada, Dean Arthur Collingwood, dean of the faculty of music, University of Saskatchewan, arrived in Edmonton Friday to hold examinations here.

His examination tour commenced at Newfoundland last May, and is expected to conclude with examinations at Victoria, B.C., toward the end of July.

Commenting on the success of the faculty of music at Saskatchewan university, Professor Collingwood said it was the first Canadian university to accept music as one of the cultural subjects for the degrees of B.A. and B.Sc.

However, he added, music is by no means an exclusive matter at the university, and one of the most popular activities is the music informal class conducted each week and which has enjoyed an expanding attendance during the last few years.

Another outcome of the establishment of the faculty of music is the symphony orchestra created seven years ago, and which now has a membership of 52 players.

BEST TALENT

Mr. Collingwood said that the best amateur and professional talent is represented in this orchestra, with 11 different nationalities in the membership.

He said that the war has resulted in a reduction in the numbers entering the faculty of music, but has resulted also in an increase in the enrolment to the teaching section of organizations affiliated with the faculty. As an instance of this increase he quoted the upswing in enrollment at the Regina College of Music where an increase of 20 per cent has been achieved last year.

In 1939 Australia had 13,500 people working on munitions and now 315,000.

Women Won't Talk

By RENE RYERSON MART

CHAPTER XVI

IT was Deputy Shaw who took charge. He phoned the doctor and told him to bring a stomach pump. Then he ordered us all out of Margaret's room except Clara and Sarah and Mattison. He said they'd be needed to help.

I went down to the big square, white-tiled kitchen and put some coffee on to boil. Maybe a cup of it hot and black would bring me out of the nightmare in which I was moving with the clogged and frantic efforts peculiar to bad dreams.

The nightmare which had begun the moment Mattison and I broke into Margaret's room and saw her gray face and touched her clammy hands. The nightmare which had sucked me into its depths when I glanced at the table beside her bed. The glass that I had left there was empty, and the small envelope which had contained the remaining sleeping tablets was torn raggedly open.

Clint Mattison's voice sounded miles away. "I think we need a doctor, Mrs. Kraik."

All the phones at Kraiktower are downstairs. I remember holding tightly to the bannister as I started down the steps, for I was faint with shock. I was nearly at the bottom when someone banged the knocker on the hall door. I opened it and there in the flagged entrance stood Deputy Shaw. He lifted his cap, smiled, and swallowed what he was going to say. I must have looked ghastly.

"What's happened?" he barked.

I told him, trying to keep my voice steady. He took over without any foolish preliminaries.

It was the longest day of my life. The doctor went away to make his morning calls and came back and went away again.

Deputy Shaw used the phone and another police car came with three men in it. They lugged an inhalator up to Margaret's room. Then Shaw went away.

Clint Mattison came down about 1 o'clock and ate with us. He lit his pipe afterward and said he was going out for some air before he went back upstairs.

He saw the question in my eyes and shook his head. "We can't tell yet, Mrs. Kraik. We keep her walking, one on each side of her holding her up, and we talk to her and try to concentrate her attention. But she's only half conscious."

Kathy got up suddenly from her chair. "Do you mind if I walk with you?" she asked Mattison.

Of course he didn't. I watched them wander off down by the lake. Mattison was broad-shouldered and half a head taller than Kathy. They made a nice-looking couple.

The doctor came back again about 5 o'clock and was upstairs for more than an hour. When he came down he hunted me up in the living room. Walter had mixed cocktails, and we were sipping them and waiting for the dinner gong. We were all there except Will Grady's wife. She had been acting queerly all day, staring at me whenever I went upstairs and moving away to avoid speaking. The middle of the afternoon she had gone over to their room in the tower and sent word back later that she had a headache and didn't want any dinner.

The doctor looked very grave as he crossed the room toward me and my heart drew into a knot. He took his glasses off, polished them with a handkerchief, and said slowly, "She's going to live." He held the glasses up to the light and then polished them vigorously again. "But her mind—"

My heart stood still, and the horror of my quick guess must have shone in my face.

"No—it isn't that," he added hastily. "She's not insane. She understands what you say to her and answers quite sensibly. But her memory's gone. She doesn't remember anything that's happened. Not even her grandson's death."

The doctor's voice seemed to come from a great distance as he finished in his deliberate fashion: "What she needs now is rest and quiet. And—her memory may return in time. Mrs. Grady is with her now."

So he went away and left me standing there, rather stupidly trying to take in the full import of his words.

Connie, too, acted as if she could not quite grasp it all at once. She walked stiffly over to a window and stood staring out at the deepening dusk. After a time, over her shoulder, without looking around: "The doctor says Margaret doesn't even remember that Derek is dead isn't that odd?"

Kathy jerked her head up and looked at Connie intently.

Will Grady acted the most normal of any of us. He polished off another cocktail, set the glass down, and rubbed his hands together. "The old lady's tough. Guess it would take more than a sleeping tablet to finish her off."

Walter agreed with him in an absent-minded sort of way.

Then the dinner gong sounded and we went into the dining room.

Will Grady sat at Walter's right. He made clumsy mistakes with his silver and his big voice boomed constantly. It occurred to me finally that he was talking too much even for a man embarrassed by the presence of servants and more implements beside his plate than he knew how to use. He had something on his mind and was trying to cover it up with a flood of talk.

I wondered what it was.

Kathy disturbed my reflections with some remark, and when I turned my head to answer her, I caught Clint Mattison watching me as I had been watching Will Grady. I remembered with unease the same speculative intentness in his eyes when he had looked at me that morning in the breakfast room. Another man with something on his mind!

Due to the inability of readers to obtain the varied foods suggested in the weekly menus which have been appearing in this column each Friday, it has been decided to discontinue the printing of these menus for the duration, or until normalcy returns in the food situation.

However, readers are invited to send for special articles on diets and food combinations, which will help to provide good wholesome and nutritious meals with the foods available.

HEADACHE

When something goes wrong, headache seems to be one of the first general warning symptoms. The abnormal factor may be of physical or emotional origin. In other words, headache may result when something goes wrong either in the physical or "pinchable" part of you, or in the "unpinchable" part or that part which you can not feel with your fingers. An example of a physical cause of headache is a blow on the head, while an example of a psychic or emotional cause is violent anger.

Because of the wide variety of possible causes, it is not always easy to determine quickly the exact cause of the distress which the patient describes. The same wide variety of causes is likewise the reason why this symptom is so exceedingly common. Certainly, more people suffer from headache than from any other single symptom. Sometimes they make the mistake of considering headache a disease whereas it is actually only one of the signs of disease. It is an effect, but not a cause.

Headache may appear to be located in different parts of the head—that is, it may involve the back, the top, the side, or the forehead, or it may be described by the patient as being general, or as seeming to come from a point in back of the eyes. The ache may be intense, in which case it is described as boring or sharp, or it may be dull. Sometimes what the patient calls a headache is in reality a form of neuralgia.

In discussing headache, it is most convenient to consider the various types separately; as an illustration, there is the toxic type, due to auto-intoxication, caused by a systemic toxemia; likewise there is the bilious type which so frequently develops in the patient predisposed to attacks of biliousness caused by a sluggish liver; then there is a very common type of headache due to hyperemia. An additional type of headache is that which results from breathing in stale air or the fumes from gas fires. In those patient's who are highly-strung, a certain type of nervous headache may follow any unusual strain. Another type of headache is due principally to either high or low blood pressure.

Undoubtedly, the most ordinary headache is that which is due to constipation and this common, garden-variety of headache will readily yield to the warm enema followed by resting for half an hour in a quiet room. Many patients have reported to me that they have been surprised at how quickly relief from headache may be obtained by the use of these simple measures. Regardless of the cause of the headache, it is generally the best plan to take the enema rest if possible, and to eat simply. If there are any signs of indigestion skip the next few meals and use fruit juice feedings instead. Certainly, that is a safe treatment.

Undoubtedly, most headaches are treated at home and it is easy for the patient to get into the habit of relying on various headache remedies to alon the discomfort. However, when headache is a persistent symptom, it should be given the attention it deserves and an examination is in order, to find out the cause. Those who have severe headaches which are repeated at frequent intervals should not neglect finding out the cause. When the exact cause is found and definitely removed, the headaches will vanish.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Officiates

Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., acting camp commandant at the Wainwright training camp who officiated at the opening of a new Red Cross room where hot dogs, doughnuts and lemonade will be sold to the men in training. So popular did the booth prove to be on the opening night that those in charge sold out entirely of food in a short time. Proceeds will be turned over to the Red Cross military hospital.

Col. Brown Opens Red Cross Room

WAINWRIGHT—With Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., camp commandant, officiating, a Red Cross room, in which hot dogs, doughnuts and lemonade will be sold to the men at the Wainwright Training camp was opened last week at the corner of Main Street and Third Avenue.

Mrs. O. R. Hannah, president of the Red Cross presented a short address. It was explained the room had been agened because of the large number of men who cannot get served at the cafes in town.

Staff of members are in charge each evening. So popular was the new booth that shortly after opening they were entirely sold out. All proceeds will be turned over to the Red Cross Military hospital for comforts.

Hold Services For Sgt. Johnston

GLENDON — Memorial services were held here for the late Sgt. Eugene Huntley Johnston, R.C.A.F., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kenneth Johnston of Glendon. Officiating at the services were the Rev. R. S. Faulks of the Church of St. Peter's and the Good Shepherd in Edmonton, assisted by the Rev. Theodore Bergee, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church where the services were held.

R. M. Sherk, representing the Canadian Legion, gave an address and read an adaptation of the Legion graveside service. Mr. and Mrs. Sherk sang a duet and Mrs. Sherk was organist during the services.

For the services the church was draped with the Union Jack and Canadian flags while cut flowers and poppies were used as decorations.

To survive him Sgt. Johnston leaves, his parents, two brothers, Edward and William, both in the R.C.A.F. and a sister Margaret. A brother and sister predeceased him.

The sum of $8.28 was raised through the sale of ice cream at the Glendon Commencement exercises and will be given to the Junior Red Cross.

PRIVATE BREGER ABROAD

"Boy, my Thompson submachine-gun, calibre .45!"

Pioneer Marks 50th Year Of Residence at Lacombe

LACOMBE — Mrs. Rudolph Flegal, 95-year-old pioneer of the Morningside district, is celebrating the 50th anniversary of her arrival in Lacombe, and her memories of that occasion include the story of a long overland trip from Nebraska in a covered wagon. It was a trip which took three months, way back in 1893, and the family arrived in Lacombe, June 10 of that year. Making the long journey in the wagon were Mrs. Flegal and her husband, the late Rudolph Flegal and their three sons, Otto, Roy and Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Flegal sold their property in Nebraska early in 1893, and purchased a covered wagon. Into this vehicle they packed all the necessary food and clothing it would hold and started off for Lacombe, in the Northwest Territories, in April. Four horses were used to pull the big prairie schooner, with a fifth trailing along behind for use as a spare when the other animals tired.

Towards evening on each day of the journey, the party pulled up at the best camping spot and slept in tents for the night. Meals were cooked on the open prairie as they made their way across the plains there being few roads in those days. The boys in the family hunted for small game as they went along and this replenished the stock of food which they had brought with them.

The party travelled through a large part of Nebraska, into Wyoming, through the Black Hills of North Dakota, into Montana and finally into Alberta. Mrs. Flegal recalls how they forded the St. Mary's, Old Man, Milk and High Rivers, as there were no bridges over most of the streams.

75 CENTS

The family finances consisted of just 75 cents when Mr. Flegal brought his horses to a stop in the tiny hamlet of Lacombe after the long journey. However, they set to work with the true Western spirit and lost no time in filing on a homestead at Morningside.

Mr. Flegal was known as one of the best farmers in his district prior to his death 38 years ago, and his sons have carried on in the district in the same manner. Roy and Paul, who were in their teens when they made the overland trip in the covered wagon, still farm in the Morningside area, and Otto, a railroad engineer, resides in Calgary.

Three Men Killed As Transport Plane Crashes in Quebec

ST. ADOLPHE DE HOWARD, Que., June 25—(CP)—Three men were killed yesterday when a Lockheed Hudson plane of the Royal Air Force transport command crashed near this Laurentian mountain resort about 50 miles north of Montreal.

The plane burst into flames after hitting a tree top and crashed near a lake. Witnesses said that before the plane hit the tree the pilot appeared to be looking for a place to land.

Next-of-kin of the victims are being informed and their names will be announced later.

Sailor on Leave Injured by Auto

Thrown between 10 and 15 feet after he had been struck by a station wagon at the corner of 101 street and Jasper avenue about 11:45 p.m. Wednesday, Robert Adamson, R.C.N.V.R., was taken to University hospital where an X-ray disclosed that he had sustained a fractured leg.

Driver of the vehicle asked to put his name and address in the injured man's diary, did so, but as illegible it could not be made out. Adamson informed police on Thursday.

Adamson, who stated he was on furlough from Nova Scotia, told authorities he had crossed Jasper avenue and was about to step onto the next walk when he was struck by the auto.

The vehicle was stopped immediately, he said, and the driver returned to help him into the car and take him home. After requesting the latter to leave his name and address, he copied down the number of the license.

City police are investigating.

Japs Quit Work In Protest Move

KELOWNA, B.C., June 25.—(CP)—Japanese field workers, protesting against a recent order of the British Columbia security commission which will result in their removal from the Okanagan district after Nov. 15, were refusing to work yesterday and growers said that as a result a serious loss might be suffered in the tomato crop.

Steel in an averaged-size lawn mower is enough to make one 100-pound bomb.

30 Fliers Killed, 70 Airplanes Lost By Civil Patrol

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—The office of war information last night said 30 fliers have been killed and 35 planes lost in the work—over land and water—of the United States civil air patrol since its organization in November, 1941. The C.A.P.'s 15,000 volunteer airmen, operating at more than 1,000 airfields have made flights totalling more than 20,000,000 miles and spotted more than 150 submarines for the army, navy and coast guard.

Favorite Flowers For Your Linens

By ALICE BROOKS

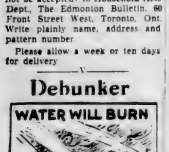

Pattern No. 7568

Whether its' towel or pillowcase, scarf or cloth you are embroidering, it will be enhanced by these "true to life" garden favorites. And if you can't decide which color scheme to choose, peek out in your garden and let Nature be your guide. Pattern 7568 contains a transfer pattern of 16 motifs averaging 4¼ x 3¼ inches; stitches.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) to Household Arts Dept., The Edmonton Bulletin, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ont. Write plainly name, address and pattern number.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

Debunker

Although we think of water as something to put out a fire, the truth is that water itself is combustible. Water is a chemical combination of two simple gases: hydrogen and oxygen. Hydrogen is very inflammable and oxygen accelerates the combustion. There are numerous processes by which water can be broken down into its two component gases. A motor truck has been operating in London burning an fuel but water (hydrogen). One theorist says that the end of the world would come instantly if one plastic puff of atom. It the law of nature, which holds the two elements of water together, should be called off by the Creator.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Wife's Work Often Eases Way for Other Women

Husband-Trainer's Sacrifices Do Not Endear Her to Mate; Rather It Hurts Man's Vanity to So Share Successes

One of the ironies of marriage is that so many of the women who try the hardest to be good wives lose their husbands to the Other Woman, or are treated by them with a mere toleration that is like a dagger thrust in their hearts. These forlorn wives never know why this misfortune has happened to them.

They tell you over and over again how devoted they have been to their husbands; how they have never had a thought except for their good; how hard they have striven to be real helpmeets; how they have pinched pennies to lay the foundations of their fortunes, and, for the life of them, they can't see why, when they tried so hard to please, they have failed.

It seems cruel to tell these wives that other than not their very virtues have been their undoing, and that it was their perfections that alienated their husbands from them. But such is the bitter truth. For while a man will accept his wife's labor and sacrifices, they do not endear her to him. On the contrary, It hurts his vanity to admit that she had any part in his success, and that is why the oh-so-good, big-wonderful-creature-how-did-you-do-it school of femmes find it so easy to ramp the self-made man who knows in his secret soul that he is wife-made.

For proof of this assertion take a few case histories among the people we all know. There is Sally whose family had lived for generations in a mansion in the fashionable residential section of the town, who fell in love with Tom, who was born and reared in a shack on the wrong side of the tracks. Sally was educated and cultivated and generally hand-polished from her infancy. Tom inherited bad grammar and untrammelled manners. Just as Sally did good ones. He barely get through grammar school while she came home from college with a cum laude decree. But, nevertheless, she saw in him an up-and-coming man with great possibilities, and practically over the dead bodies of her parents she married him.

Then she set about justifying her faith in him by trying to educate him. She corrected his pronunciation and overhauled his diction. She taught him parlor tricks. She was a Reader's Digest who fed him on the best from the papers and magazines and new books offered, and showed him his way among the silver, and taught him how to order a gourmet's meal at a restaurant. She was mother, teacher, friend, guide and Emily Post all rolled into one, and she turned out a grand job.

You rarely meet a man of more polish, or who has a readier wit, or who shines more brilliantly in a drawing room than Tom, but he has never forgiven his wife for being superior to him. He brackets all of her efforts to improve him under the general head of nagging, and he feels towards her the antipathy we all feel towards those who knew us when.

MADE HIM RICH

There is Florence who married Jim who had a job in a factory that brought him in only a thin pay envelope. Jim was an easy-going chap, content if he had enough to eat, decent clothes, and a few good times, but Florence was ambition incarnate. She wanted mink coats and limousines and, above all, to see Jim a big man, at the head of his own business.

So she prodded him and she pushed him until she got him out of his rut and on the up-and-up and made him develop talents he didn't even suspect himself of possessing. And she scrimped and saved and walked miles to save a few pennies at cut-rate stores, and she kept Jim's nose to the grindstone and never let him have any fun because fun costs money.

Well, Jim is a millionaire now. Owns half a dozen factories. Florence rides in a limousine and has matched pearls, but she has lost Jim. A little cutie helps him spend his money instead of the wife who helped him make it.

And there is Angela who lived the higher life and thought it her sacred duty to lift her husband up to it. And Clarissa who made her husband eat and drink the plain unseasoned food she considered good for his stomach instead of the highly seasoned dishes he craved. And Susan who treated her husband as if he was a moron child. And they all wondered why their husbands had ceased to love them when they were so good to them. And they never knew that it is because husbands are human, and that there is nothing that any of us resent so much as being done good to.

Points For Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "Let's pick up your toys and straighten your room before you go to bed, just as Daddy and I empty ash trays and pick up papers before we go to bed."

Mother: "I wish I could teach you all to pick up after yourselves. It makes me tired just to look at this living room when I get up in the morning."

Five minutes at bedtime spent by all members of the family in straightening the house saves both time and temper in the morning.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Bridge fortunes most of us because of the many interesting little problems it presents. Should I lead trump? Should I cross-ruff? Is this a finesse or a squeeze play? These are some of the problems confronting the careful declarer. In today's hand there is a simple problem, but one that is often misplayed.

East made a nice opening, and West cashed the queen and ace of clubs, then let East ruff a club. A spade was returned, declarer won with the ace, and then came the problem—not to lose a trump trick. If the trumps were divided three-two, the declarer was safe; ing two honors. North must lead but if there were only four one, then West must hold the four trumps—or the contract could not be made.

When you are confronted with this problem, you must not lead an honor from the hand contain to the heart king in dummy. East, having used his six-spot to ruff, shows out, and now North can safely finesse against West to make the contract.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Many a mother has never troubled to make the vegetables she cooks put their best feet forward.

She throws vegetables into a pot of water and boils them hard until a fork goes through them. Then she drains off the water and expects this wry-tasting, brownish-green, or yellowish-white mass to be acceptable to her children. Even a baby doesn't like it.

Vegetables should be firm and fresh and young. For children they should be cut in pieces small enough to cook quickly. They should be steamed so as to lose none of their color, flavor nor vitamin substance. Even without a regular vegetable steamer, the mother can make a very adequate one by putting a wire strainer over a kettle which fits it and adding a tightfitting lid.

Then carrots come out in golden slivers, peas, whole in form and green as emeralds, turnips in creamy-white cubes and other vegetables as nature intended them to look and taste. For babies the vegetables may be pressed through a sieve and delicately flavored with butter and salt. For older children they may be dressed up as they are, or a tablespoon or so of thin, white sauce added to them. All this if they like vegetables.

If they do not like vegetables mothers will have to be ingenious, rather than forceful and think up ways to make vegetables so interesting that not a childish nose could be elevated against them.

For the child who has learned against vegetables, don't go to the mat each meal and say determinedly, "You HAVE to eat your vegetables before you can have anything else." That's the way to make vegetables disliked forever.

Instead, try remarking casually, "You don't have to eat anything you really dislike, but try just a spoonful with your other foods and you'll soon discover why we all like vegetables." And then be content to allow it to be a spoonful.

Sometimes, to avoid arguments, vegetables can be added to other better-liked foods. Grind them raw and use them in a sandwich filling with a tart salad dressing. Add them to a fruit gelatine and serve as dessert. Mix them with nuts and raisins and bind a tablespoon in a leaf of lettuce with a lemon dressing. Cook and mash them and mix with milk and egg, well salted, and steam a nice custard that will do for the meat course.

If we want children to like a food we have to use ingenuity in stick itself. If you are over forty try to widen a small mouth, it gives you a younger look! If your face is thin, "square" the mouthline for dramatic effect.

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Sunday breakfast should display victory garden berries, or else those appearing ahead of time at your grocers, shipped in from warmer climates. Serve strawberries, blackberries, red raspberries, and don't overlook the early crop of cultivated blueberries for lusciousness.

In selecting berries, remember they should be fresh in appearance, plump and solid, high in color and free from dirt.

Gather up all the leftover scraps of bread and turn them into pancakes for Sunday breakfast—there's food, economy and good eating in that suggestion.

BREAD CRUMB PANCAKES
(8 Pancakes)

Five slices enriched white bread, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon enriched margarine or butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, well beaten, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cut bread into very small cubes. Scald milk with fat and salt; combine with cubes of bread and stir to blend well. Then add beaten egg and baking powder. Drop by tablespoons onto greased griddle or frying pan and brown on both sides. May be served plain or with jam, honey or maple syrup.

BLUEBERRY BREAD CRUMB PANCAKES

Fold 1 cup washed and well-drained cultivated blueberries into batter just before cooking. Make blackberry pancakes the same as the blueberry.

PEANUT BUTTER BREAD CRUMB PANCAKES

Substitute 2 tablespoons peanut butter for margarine or butter and blend into scalded milk.

CHEESE BREAD CRUMB PANCAKES

Add 4 tablespoons freshly grated cheese into batter just before cooking.

WREN Rank Titles Change

OTTAWA, June 25.—(CP)—Canada's Wren officers—members of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service—have been granted the use of the same rank titles as men and are known now as commander, lieutenant-commander, lieutenant and sub-lieutenant.

Since incorporation of the Wrens last August the Wren counterparts of these ranks have been chief officer, first officer, second officer and third officer.

W.R.C.N.S. officers now enrolled and to be set at shore establishments of the Royal Canadian Navy include one commander, three lieutenant-commanders, five lieutenants, 143 sub-lieutenants.

The commander is Dorothy Isherwood, on loan from the British Women's Royal Naval Service. She is director of the W.R.C.N.S. with headquarters at Ottawa.

By changing to the R.C.N. ranks, the Wrens followed the lead of the Canadian Women's Army Corps. The R.C.A.F. Women's Division now is the only women's service with its own rank titles.

City Airman Wed at Moncton

MONCTON, N.B., June 25—A pretty wedding was held at the Weldon street home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Steeves recently when their daughter, Miss Ruth Elizabeth Steeves, became the bride of Sgt. John Arthur Rogers, No. 5 E.D., R.C.A.F., son of Mrs. A. H. Rogers of Edmonton and the late Mr. Rogers. The Rev. Dr. Price D. Knott, minister of First Baptist church, performed the ceremony, which was attended by 60 friends and relatives.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of soft blue French crepe fashioned with an embroidered bodice, shirred waist and long full sleeves. She carried a bouquet of rapture roses and baby's breath, and wore a matching garland in her hair. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom's mother.

Miss Helen Lutes, as bridesmaid, wore a slipper-length dress of frosty pink and carried a bouquet of pink and mauve sweetpeas and roses. She wore a wreath of matching flowers in her hair.

Cpl. Gordon Clark, No. 1 E.D., was best man.

Wedding music was played by John N. Steeves, an uncle of the bride. During the signing of the register Mrs. J. Clyde Stevens sang "O Promise Me."

White and mauve lilacs and multi-colored tulips were used throughout the rooms and the bride's table, which was set with a lace cloth, was centred with a wedding cake flanked with tapers and decorated with clusters of pink sweetpeas, lilies of the valley and forget-me-nots.

Daughters' League Closes Meetings For Summer

Canadian Daughters' League Assembly No. 18 held its final meeting of the season Tuesday evening, when three new members were received into the assembly.

Members voted the sum of $25 to the Green Wave Relief Fund.

The Red Cross convener reported two quilts having been made and a successful tea was reported held at the home of Mrs. M. Shantz.

Plans were made for a rummage sale to be held in the early fall and for the raffle of a tea set during the summer months. Parcels of cigarettes are being sent regularly to men serving overseas.

Members of the assembly will assist at the Stamp Bar.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Dodge and Miss Helen Coleman.

My Day

BY ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

HYDE PARK, N.Y.—This is the day which is being celebrated as tribute to Russia day, and this afternoon I broadcast for the Russian war relief society. They have sent me a number of letters which have been written by Russians and by citizens of the United States, under the stimulus of their letter writing campaign.

I will only be able to use a few of them this afternoon but I wish you could read them all, as I have. It would confirm your opinion, I know, that people the world over are very much the same. If they live on farms, they are interested in what they can grow in the climate, in livestock, and in the opportunities which their children have to learn to do better work than the older generation has done. If they live in cities, they want to improve the conditions under which they work and live, and just now, whether they live in Russia or in the United States, their main interest is in the men in the armed forces.

Mothers and wives and sweethearts worry about these men in every country. In Russia, at least, the fighting is near enough so they do not have to wait weeks without news. I think the hardest part, at home, the most difficult thing is that so often they do not know where their boys are when they do not hear from them in quite a long time. In the meantime, the boys are sometimes two or three months before they get their first news from home.

The trying periods are when people feel that almost anything might happen and they would never be the wiser. Many a boy who starts out for the southwest Pacific, North Africa, Alaska or Greenland, may never have been more than twenty miles from home before he entered the service. When he was in this country he knew, if he could save the money, there was a chance he might get back to familiar scenes.

Once he learned about the long-distance telephone and airmail letters, even if he were away from home, he heard the same language about him, and he knew he could hear a familiar voice if the separation became unbearable. After he started overseas that sense of security was gone entirely, and I think we will look back upon this war with a feeling that perhaps those periods without news were one of our greatest handicaps.

I was rather pleased to find the other day in the library here, that the soldiers from the nearby military police school bring their wives and girls there occasionally when they come up to visit, and really enjoy looking at all the exhibits. Since driving has not been allowed, the crowds that used to come and go, can no longer reach any of the places of historical interest. I wondered if the nearby people who have a better chance to see things more quietly and comfortably than ever before, would take advantage of it, and I think they do.

Miss E. Wensel, the Rev. Teske Wed at Central Baptist Church

Baskets of pink and white peonies and banks of fern formed the setting for the marriage Thursday at 8 p.m. in Central Baptist church, of Eileen Bernice Wensel, daughter of William Wensel, and the Rev. Arthur W. Teske of Camrose, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Teske of Esk, Saskatchewan. The Rev. E. P. Wahl performed the ceremony.

The bride's gown of white cut crepe was fashioned with a long torso, tiny Peter Pan collar and long tight sleeves. The full skirt fell in a short train. Her court length tulle veil was caught to her head with four American Beauty roses and she carried a sheaf bouquet of American Beauty roses and callalillies.

Mrs. A. Wensel was matron of honor and wore a slipper length gown fashioned with a full skirt, Peter Pan collar and bishop sleeves, of French blue sheer and a tiny hat trimmed with blue veiling. A corsage of red roses and white carnations completed her ensemble.

Miss Sadie Dreger and Miss Agnes Arndt attended the bride as bridesmaids. The former was in pink sheer and the latter in yellow sheer. On their heads they wore clusters of flowers and veils to match their gowns, and carried colonial bouquets.

Little Joan Wensel was flower girl wearing a pale green frock styled with short puffed sleeves and Peter Pan collar. She carried a tiny colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses and sweetpeas.

Dalmer Teske acted as ring boy.

Herbert Arndt was best man and the groomsmen were Clifford Stelter and Donovan Wensel.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception to 100 guests was held in the church parlor where the bride's table was centred with a wedding cake and lighted tall tapers. Blue and white peonies completed the table decorations.

Mrs. S. Wensel, a sister-in-law of the bride, received with the bridal party, wearing a gold tailleur, brown accessories and a corsage of talisman roses.

Toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. E. P. Wahl.

Leaving on their wedding trip to Esk where they will visit the bridegroom's parents, the bride changed to an apple green silk suit with which she wore maroon accessories.

Upon their return the couple will make their home in Camrose.

Out-of-town guests included E. Gella of Tacoma, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. G. Relf of Calgary.

Saskatchewan Woman Mother to More Than 200 Air Force Girls

By GLADYS LENNON

AN R.C.A.F. BASE IN NEWFOUNDLAND, June 25.—(CP)—"Mother to more than 200 girls" is the way Flight Officer Elizabeth H. Bie of Moose Jaw describes her job. She is senior officer in charge of the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division) at this operational base.

Small and dark-eyed, she is young to have the responsibility of so large a family. But there is something in her air of quiet confidence which says the girls and their problems are in good hands.

For they do bring her their troubles.

The girl worried about illness at home comes asking to be posted back to Canada so she can be near her family. An airwoman whose boy friend has just received his commission asks desperately: "Do I have to give him up?" because of the rule that airwomen must not be wed to officers.

Flight Officer Bie listens to them all with a sympathetic interest and gives what help is possible in the particular case. "Of course, some of them are very independent and wouldn't talk things over with anybody," she said. "But most of them depend on us to get them out of their troubles."

SCATTERED DUTIES

Perhaps the trouble is with the girl's work—it may not be just what she would like to do or feels she is capable of doing. Though most of the girls work directly under R.C.A.F. officers, ultimate responsibility for their work and welfare rests with their own W.D. officers.

Now and again the Senior Officer takes time from her busy days to visit the scattered points at which the girls work, to make sure that working conditions are satisfactory and that they are doing a good job.

Fitting the girls into the jobs for which they are best suited, she said, "is right down my alley." Formerly on the staff of the Moose Jaw Technical High School, she holds a Master's degree in personnel and guidance.

But supervision of the girls is a relatively small part of Flight Officer Bie's work. As Assistant Adjutant, she is the staff officer between those of the Commanding Officer and the Adjutant, most of her day is spent dealing with matters far beyond the grounds of the Women's Division.

PLENTY TROUBLES

The Flight Officer doesn't talk about this side of her work. "Oh I'm just a general Joe," she will say with a smile that robs the words of any self-pity. "Sometimes I think all the troubles of the station are on my shoulders."

One of the first of the Women's Division to reach this station about ten months ago, Flight Officer Bie was notified on Good Friday of her promotion from Section Officer. For some time she had been hearing rumors that it was coming, but dismissed them with a shrug and the characteristic remark, "I'm not getting excited until I see it in cold print."

The Experts Say..

OTTAWA, June 25.—(CP)—Hints from the experts to ease the summertime housekeeping chores of busy housewives.

These are Unrationed—Unexpected visitors—Don't are provided in meat sandwiches and meat pies. Career girls, bustling home to their own dinners, can thrill get two or three ham sandwiches without surrendering any meat ration coupons. . . . The salton administration of the Prices Board has examined meat pies, another "quickie," from the list of rationed meats.

Budget Benefits—A change in the basis of subsidy on imported fruits will save consumers from two to seven cents on the cost of oranges, depending on whether housewives prefer the small juice or the larger eating orange. The increase in subsidy has been granted by the prices stability corporation to cover an increase in the price of oranges in California.

Gardening Goodies—People growing their own vegetables this year will know the joy of having them really garden-fresh, and Laura Pepper, chief of the food garden Department's consumer section, points out that journey from garden to table is accomplished in an hour or so. . . . When salad vegetables are brought in from the garden or market, they should be washed immediately, put into the crisper for an hour or two and then onto the table as soon as possible. Consumers are advised to take advantage of locally-grown fruits and vegetables this summer.

Hot Weather Tip—Warm weather tempts us all to skip a meal here and there. When it's really "too hot to eat" it's important to get as many of the essential nutrients as possible in what you do eat. . . . Marion Harlow, of nutrition services, suggests that there is no better way of getting maximum nourishment with a smile that robs the words of any self-pity. "Sometimes I think all the troubles of the station are on my shoulders."

Travellers' L.A. Holds Last Meet for Season

Ladies' Auxiliary to the United Commercial Travellers held its last meeting of the season on Saturday evening at the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street. According to reports given, the auxiliary has made 44 quilts for war charities, and has shipped 20 pounds of children's knitted clothing to Bristol, England.

Senior councillor, Mrs. G. Leitch, presided. Mrs. J. M. Cumming, who was re-elected treasurer of the Grand Auxiliary at a recent convention in Regina, and Mrs. T. J. Stevenson, was was a delegate at the convention, gave reports of the Grand Session.

Refreshment and still keeping cool than by using milk. "Make mine milk" a good advice for the "dog days" or any other days. When the mercury soars, milk served very cold in a frosted glass, a well-chilled egg nog or a frosty milk shake are always welcome.

Saving the Onions—Other Jobs sometimes are found for salvage collected by volunteer committees in various parts of Canada before it is turned over to make war weapons. Recently, 25 tons of wire fence, light metal and tin cans, collected by the Hilton, Ont., committee, were used to save an onion crop near Erieau, Ont. . . . Lake Erie became rusty, and rough that if the salvage material had not been used to support the marsh dyke, it is likely that a valuable crop of onions would have been flooded.

Stay at Home—The munitions department suggests that this year's holidayers should spend their vacations at home, or as near to home as they can. The co-operation of every Canadian is needed to enable Canada's transportation facilities to meet the heavy volume of traffic this year, and the armed forces and vital war equipment must have priority rating . . . Vacation leaves should begin and end at mid-week periods to reduce travel congestion, the department says. Holidays should, if possible, begin and end on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays to alleviate the pressure of week-end travel, and it's even more patriotic to spend your holidays at home.

Elizabeth Jewel Becomes Bride Of William Thompson Kelly

Calla lilies, snapdragons and ferns decorated the altar of Augustana Lutheran church recently, when Miss Elizabeth Jewel, daughter of Mrs. Th. ra Jewel, 10253 Jasper avenue, Edmonton, became the bride of William Thompson Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kelly, of 10227 106 street.

Entering the church to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, the bride made a pretty picture in her gown of white satin with which she wore a full length veil, slightly en train. A bridal bouquet of calla lilies completed her ensemble.

Miss Maya Mogensen was maid-of-honor and wore a formal gown of light blue taffeta and tulle. She carried a bouquet of tulips and irises. Miss Margaret Jewel, sister of the bride, was a second attendant. She wore a frock of dusky rose sheer, and carried pink and white carnations.

Little Miss Greta Granstrom, flower girl was in a dress of light blue sheer, and she carried a colonial bouquet.

Attending the bridegroom were Devon Tiviotdale and Raymond Sampson.

Siegried Wessel played the wedding march music and Mrs. Hartley Sorenson and Miss Hilda Smith sang "Love Never Faileth."

A reception was held at the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street. Mrs. Jewel, mother of the bride, wore a two-piece afternoon frock of romance blue with white accessories and a corsage of deep red roses. Mrs. Kelly wore an afternoon dress of navy blue and corsage of roses.

The bride's table was centred by a wedding cake and a bouquet of Dale roses.

The couple will take up residence at 10227 106 street.

Lady Wavell Is "Unsung Heroine"

LONDON, June 25.—(CP)—Lady Wavell, who as the Vicereine of India virtually will be queen to 400,000,000 people, is one of the least publicized wives of Britain's leaders.

During peace-time or war she can be found at the right hand of the Field Marshal, wherever his official duties take him, but she is not one for the limelight.

When Wavell was in Africa, she was in Cairo directing welfare organizations. She now is in India.

Lady Wavell likes people, is a keen rider and a fine musician.

The Wavells have been married 27 years. They have three daughters and one son.

What To Do

If my desk phone in the office rings while I am in the midst of a conversation what must I do?

Answer—Beg pardon of the person to whom you are talking and answer the telephone. Make your conversation as brief as possible on the phone so you may return to the person at your desk.

If the person who is at your desk is about to leave, the ringing phone will probably hasten his departure, in which case you may bid him goodbye before answering.

The main thing to remember is, don't be rude to other people and don't waste their time, it is just as valuable as yours.

Sealed tenders will be received at the office of the Chief Engineer, Winnipeg, Manitoba, until 12 o'clock noon, Friday, July 9th, 1943, for the re-construction of ten (10) stall roundhouse and machine shop at Calgary, Alberta.

Plans, specifications and form of contract may be seen, and form of tender obtained at the office of the chief engineer, Winnipeg.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on form supplied by the railway company and accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank equal to five percent of the value of the work, payable to the order of the treasurer, Canadian National Railways. No bid bonds will be accepted with tenders on this work.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

W. A. DEVEREUX,
Vice President and General Manager.

Winnipeg, Manitoba,
June 24th, 1943.

Sale of Dwelling House Property by Tender

Pursuant to the order for sale and directions of the Honourable Mr. Justice McLaurin, sealed tenders will be received for the purchase of the undermentioned city property:

Lot 26, Block 14, Bellevue Addition, Edmonton, Plan 600 U, reserving mines and minerals.

This property is known for municipal purposes as 11916 88th Street, Edmonton, and is offered for sale with taxes paid to December 31st, 1942.

The lot has 22 feet frontage and is 122 feet in depth. Erected thereon is one-storey dwelling 22-3/8 by 28 with finished attic with an addition 8 x 16, a front verandah 8 x 20 screened and glassed in. There is a full basement, the walls being of cement blocks. The dwelling is heated by coal furnace. There are four rooms on the first floor and two in the attic.

Tenders must be enclosed in sealed envelopes marked "Tender re Grove Street, No. 32262," addressed to R. P. Wallace, Esq., K.C., Clerk of the Supreme Court, Court House, Edmonton, Alberta, and must be in his hands not later than 12 o'clock noon on the 12th day of July, A.D. 1943.

TERMS OF SALE: Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque for 10% of the amount tendered and the balance of the purchase price must be paid into Court within 60 days after acceptance of the tender without interest.

The deposit of 10% shall be forfeited by the successful tenderer if he fails to carry out the purchase after acceptance of the tender. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers shall be returned to them immediately after rejection thereof.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale shall be the standing conditions of the Supreme Court of Alberta in so far as the same are applicable.

For further particulars apply to Messrs. McGuig and Parsons, Barristers and Solicitors, 918-17 McLeod Building, Edmonton, Alberta.

DATED at the City of Edmonton in the Province of Alberta, this 1st day of June, A.D. 1942.

Clerk of the Court.

U.S. General Lost On Kiel Attack

LONDON, June 25.—(CP)—Brig.-Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, great-grandson and namesake of the famed Confederate general, was lost June 13 in one of history's greatest aerial fights during the American daylight attack on Kiel, Germany.

An announcement today listed the 38-year-old general, who rode as an observer on a heavy bomber which led the assault, as missing. His plane was shot down.

Forrest, as chief of staff for Maj.-Gen. Robert Olds, commander of the 2nd Air Force in the United States, played on important role in the development and expansion of the heavy bombardment program.

The young general was the first American of his rank to become a combat casualty in this theatre. His loss made a total of 15 American generals and admirals to be listed as missing or killed in the Second Great War.

9 Jap Submarines Are Reported Sunk Off U.S. West Coast

LOS ANGELES, June 25.—(AP)—The Los Angeles Times says at least nine Japanese submarines, possibly others, have been sunk off California and Oregon by Navy and Coast Guard surface and air force since the United States entered the war. The Times says the tabulation was unconfirmed by the Navy but based upon substantial data.

Municipalities Delegates Hear World Problems

conclusion that the march of science between nations must be exchanged with the needs. To this end we and the people of the United States have signed agreements.

"We have already shared with military, industrial and financial agreements with our neighbors to the south, so that the human and material resources of our great nations will be pooled for the benefit of people everywhere. In this world of today we have seen the great project of the Alaska Highway and routes of travel completed. This joint effort between Canada and the United States, whereby Canada financed the airway lines and airports and the United States the highway is a great credit to both nations.

FIGHT FOR LIBERTY

"The people of Canada are united to bring democracy to the world. We are fighting for liberty, unity and justice with equal rights for all. Toward this end Canada has made a magnificent contribution in men and materiels. To this end we have been and will be asked to buy Victory Bonds. These bonds are merely saving out our time which we guarantee to pay back to ourselves, for the Dominion of Canada is merely the people of Canada. We must remember that so long as the national debt of Canada is kept internal the total of that debt is immaterial."

WARTIME BOARD

Mr. Campbell touched on the work of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in this world today. "Our big job and the purpose of our organization is to prevent inflation. To this end almost every commodity for human use is regulated. This has required and will require co-operation, conciliation and reason. It has involved an attempt on the part of the people of Canada to the reasons for these measures . . . instead of persecution for their enactment. As the governing officials of the municipalities of Alberta you must be ready to stamp out black markets for these things either if they are not supported by people buying.

"Certainly the regulations of the W.T.P.T.B. causes inconveniences and sacrifices but these are nothing when compared to the sacrifices of the men and women in our armed services."

Speaking of the world of tomorrow Mr. Campbell said: There is by no one who can look into the future very far. We must be prepared for a victory that may come quickly and for one that may be all dazed.

STEADY MINDS

"Thousands of people who have been employed in war factories are going to be out of work, thousands of men and women who have been in the armed forces will be returning to the country to take up their jobs. We will ask these men with cool heads and steady minds to solve the problems and keep peace. We must realize that peace also must work and produce to solve the problem of changing to peace time production from war time production.

"To be prepared for the future we must educate the children of today for the future of tomorrow. The rising generation must know more about Canada and her constitution and laws. It is a time that 99 per cent of the people of Canada have neither read nor seen the constitution of our Dominion. We must be prepared for the great changes that are to come.

"The fate of our nation," concluded Mr. Campbell, "is at the course of a ship without instruments but if we don't go too fast or in the dark we will reach our destination. Life is not to be made or many mistakes and to this end we must have unity of purpose."

NEW SYSTEM

The morning session concluded with an address by Alex. Soutter, deputy minister of municipal affairs on the new municipal accounting system. "The purpose of such a system" he said "is that the 4,000 municipalities of Canada will have one municipality will be understandable in another. To this end the censor's bureau in Alberta has put out a complete manual of terms and procedures. In some municipalities this has been accepted and the changes made but the support could be got from all concerned.

Following the showing of films supplied through the National Film Board at Ottawa, Friday afternoon the delegates will elect the officers of the union for the coming year and finish unfinished resolutions and discussions.

Gallant Greeks Ask Your Help To Battle Enemy

The Greek War Relief Fund campaign has been extended to the end of July in accordance with the wishes of rural districts across Canada. Because of their scattered population, these areas are necessarily faced with special organizational problems and require more time fo. fund-raising.

Many groups in all districts of Alberta are busily organizing for the campaign which will continue throughout July and are expecting to get good results.

The objective of Canada as a whole is $500,000 but that is only a minimum goal. The more money raised the more supplies of badly needed articles will be sent to aid the suffering people of Greece.

Send your donation to J. G. Nickerson, manager, Edmonton main branch, The Royal Bank of Canada, or to any branch of The Royal Bank.

Help is needed quickly for the men, women and children of Greece who have suffered so greatly from the horrors of war.

Dutch Wreck Nazi Recruiting Office

NEW YORK, June 25.—(CP)—The main German recruiting office in Holland for forced labor has been "wrecked," BBC broadcast heard here by CBS said last night.

The broadcast added that "out of 300,000 Dutchmen who were supposed to report for work, only 50 appeared."

Japanese Planes Attack U.S. Ships

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—The navy department announced today that Japanese warplanes had unsuccessfully attacked small American ships in the southeastern Solomon Islands on two different occasions recently.

Premier Speaks

Delegates at Convention Of Alberta Municipalities City's Guests at Banquet

Delegates to the 39th annual convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities were guests of the city of Edmonton at a dinner held in the Macdonald hotel Thursday evening. In the absence of Mayor John W. Fry, Deputy-Mayor J. M. Douglas acted as chairman.

Mr. Douglas extended a welcome to the delegates and introduced R. S. Gillespie, Red Deer, president of the union. Mr. Gillespie, appreciative of wartime conditions in Edmonton, thanked the city's representative for the efforts to make their stay here comfortable.

Hon. Ernest C. Manning, premier of Alberta, who had addressed the Thursday morning session of the convention, attended the dinner and spoke briefly.

CITES TWO ASSETS

He told his listeners that there were two assets one had, whether they were rich or poor: the experience of the past and the opportunities of the present. We should remember the experiences of the past and seize the opportunities of the present, he said. Not only is this the world's greatest crisis, it is civilization's greatest opportunity.

Mr. Manning averred that the problems before us today, and those that will be before us, are too big to deal with, alone. In a democracy we have to learn we can only do things in the world alone, but only by pooling our strength is it possible to accomplish something worthwhile.

Mr. Manning, promising the co-operation of his government to the union, declared he would do everything in his power to bring out remained there, to make Alberta the greatest province in Canada, where men gained their rights by combining hands and strength than in pulling in different ways, he said.

MINISTER SPEAKS

Hon. C. E. Gerhart, referred to by the chairman as the new minister of municipal affairs, spoke briefly.

Two vocal solos by Bill Smith were greatly enjoyed.

REPORT ADOPTED AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session of the convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities opened with a report given by R. S. Gillespie, Red Deer, president of the union, on the convention of mayors of Canada held in Ottawa in May. Mr. Gillespie reviewed the important resolutions of that gathering and the work and knowledge gained by the delegates at that time.

In presenting the report of the legislative committee, John P. Evans, K.C., Edmonton, summarized the efforts of that body for the past years into one strong point. The one point that pre-dominated the discussion of the cost of social services in the broad sense so that they would be more equal and fair. "It was the opinion of the committee on legislation that the crux of all forms of remedy for the ills of municipalities lies in this question," stated Mr. Evans.

NEED TAX CHANGES

"We need a sifting of our means of taxation and the separation of social service costs from property taxes, so that they will be paid by all the people and not a few. All our attempts to bring such redistribution about have met with frustration and disappointment but we must keep on trying," he concluded.

Before proceeding with the resolutions to be brought before the meeting, members heard Deputy Minister of Education G. H. Ross, K.C., outline briefly the convention at the request of the delegates to clarify the participation of the division of the school dates from October to July instead of the traditional September to June. Members were satisfied with Mr. McNally's explanation and the question of bringing a motion of protestation was withdrawn.

Three resolutions were discussed and passed at the afternoon sitting. The convention urgently requests that the provincial government sell such school lands, except those that are in thickly populated districts, in order that the lands carry their fair share of taxation. This resolution originated in the town of Lacombe.

The resolution regarding old age pensioners and their support was carried. It stated that the provincial government be petitioned to have conducted whereby each municipality where old age pensioners have resided during any portion of the year shall prior to the date of application for pension shall pay its full quota toward the pensioner's medical hospitalization or any other expenditure incurred by such pensioners who come under that class, the quota to be decided by the number of years the pensioner has resided in the municipality and the county village as the case may be.

RETIREMENT FUND

The union was in favor of bringing the question of a retirement fund and sickness benefit fund for all permanent civic employees in the province other than those in the employ of the cities of Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge, to the attention of the department of municipal affairs with the request that the government consider the matter and submit to the union a scheme or schemes for such a fund.

Price Ceiling Rules Drawing Farmers' Fire

Price ceiling regulations, held to be discriminatory against Canadian farmers, were condemned at a four-day conference of directors of the Alberta Farmers' Union, which concluded Thursday evening.

A resolution passed by the directors says the ceiling was imposed at a time when farm prices were down and that farmers' prices are being held to a level which is too low. If the ceiling regulations are not adjusted, the Farmers' Union, it is understood, would prefer to see the price ceilings lifted altogether.

The resolution is to be brought up at the annual meeting of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, which will be held at Lethbridge, July 22 and 23. The Dominion government is to be represented at the meeting.

Directors present at the four-day conference were James Jackson, president of the A.F.U.; C. O. McGowan, Hairy Hills, W. G. Logan, Holden, William Hawrelak, Wasel; Mrs. J. Geddes, Winterburn; J. W. Landry, B.C.; Mrs. A. MacDonald, Spirit River; T. Ouellet, Donnelly; R. N. Russell, Athabasca; N. Baron, Bonnyville; G. G. Bevington, Winterburn; A. Friend, Daysland; G. J. Nesiman, Vermilion; E. Pharis, Magrath, Henry Young, Millet; and William Yusep, Ispas.

Getting Around

science passing and leaving us unchanged in the bewilderment.

Stuart Chase, whose keen analytical mind has produced many best sellers on the economic outlook for America, predicts a most startling changes for labor on this continent if the war continues for two, or three more years.

V

Here's what Mr. Chase has to say on the subject:

"The big gaps on labor as a distinct concept will more and more melt into a unified national purpose, together with all special interests.

By 1946 there may be little we can call a labor problem. There is practically none in Britain now and none at all in Russia.

In total war there is always a work problem but it involves the whole able-bodied population. We gradually getting around to mobilizing the manpower and womanpower of America, an undertaking which swallows up the labor problem as an avalanche swallows up a lonely skier.

V

There are today about 11,000,000 organized workers in the country, 5,000,000 each in the C.I.O. and A.F. of L., and 1,000,000 in independent unions like the Railway Brotherhoods. On demobilization day the number may be greater, but the mass infiltration of men and women from the white-collar classes, and of aliens, will present a problem in light organization which may be unbridled.

How is one to get college girls, wives of professional men, Puerto Ricans to pay $100 initiation fees and uphold the principle of labor solidarity? These newcomers will receive a liberal education. We want it means to punch a time clock, but they will be as hard to organize as so many jackrabbits.

If a national service law is enacted, as I think it may be, unions may lose effective control of their membership. Labor leaders are fighting such a law, and one can sympathize with them, but it seems to be essential in total war.
